

WIRES MERELY TURNED BACK TO PRIVATE OPERATION

Burleson's Order Is Not Actual Return of Properties to Owners, He Explains in Letter.

SENATE TO PRESS REPEAL LEGISLATION

Committee Decides on Action on Giving Up Government Control of Telephone and Telegraph.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Unanimous decision to press legislation for repeal of the wire control resolution, despite Postmaster-General Burleson's order returning telephone and telegraph properties to private operation, was reached today by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. Chairman Cummins announced that the bill would be called up in the Senate next week.

After a further hearing today, however, the committee amended the bill so as to continue existing telephone toll rates in effect for 30 days after the wires are turned back instead of 60 days, as originally proposed.

Burleson today sent to Chairman Cummins a letter declaring that his order yesterday had been misconstrued; that he had not turned back the wires to private ownership and that no such action was contemplated.

Burleson's Explanation.

Burleson's letter follows: "An order issued by me yesterday relative to the operation of the telephone and telegraph systems has been construed by some as actual return of the properties to the owners. No such action has been taken by me nor is any contemplated.

"This order simply dissolves the operating board appointed by me under date of Dec. 31, 1918, and directs that the systems again be operated by the regular officials under Government supervision. Responsibility of the Government to these systems in no way affects the fact that the systems are to be returned to the very near future. It was necessary for the Postmaster-General to take steps immediately to set up the regular operating organization of the companies so that when the properties are turned back it can be done without confusion or interruption to the service, which was the purpose of the order. This order in no wise affects the legislative pending before your committee or before Congress. It will enable the companies to begin steps to prepare the data and collect their information to be submitted to the State Commissions for the rate cases, which will probably be taken up immediately after the period of Government control ends."

Kellogg's Statement.

Senator Kellogg, in the Senate, told the committee the Postmaster-General's order only restored private operation, and did not end Government control, and that consequently the repeal bill should be enacted as speedily as possible.

N. C. Kingsbury, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., appeared before the committee to urge legislation definitely continuing existing telephone rates until state commissions have time to pass on them, and establish new schedules.

"The Postmaster-General turned back responsibility and kept control, is that the effect?" asked Senator Kellogg.

"He, in effect, discontinued the Board of Control," replied Kingsbury. "The operating control is now with officials of the companies who are operating the lines as agents of the Government."

"His order is just a piece of flim-flam then?" asked Senator Kellogg.

"No," the witness replied. "I Sweden and other countries throughout the world."

Senator Borah put into the record a statement by Lord Robert Cecil, calling upon this country to make any necessary "sacrifice" to secure the league. This, he said, was a fair sample of the foreign propaganda flooding the United States, especially from Great Britain.

"We heard a great deal in this country," continued the Idaho Senator, "before we went to Versailles about the freedom of the seas. But we have heard nothing about it since."

Great Britain and League.

"Great Britain notified the various gentlemen from other countries a subject to come properly before the peace conference. Why? With her superior navy and freedom of the seas in her control, she is in complete domination of the League of Nations."

"And she has gained a new advantage. Underneath the league of nations is the same old balance of power, now in the form of an alliance between Great Britain, France and the United States. For what reasons do India and New Zealand have votes in the assembly of the league and not the State of Minnesota? Are not the foreign relations of India and New Zealand completely controlled by Great Britain as are the foreign affairs of Minnesota controlled by the United States?"

Then he declared the Democrats already had made a party issue of the league and said he only complained because it took too much credit "from my friend, Mr. Taft, who now is being paid a great deal of attention, something as traffic management of their property. It will be necessary for each company to keep its accounts during the continuance of Government control that its books may be closed on the day Government control ends, in order that a full and accurate statement may be promptly made when it is called on for same."

Strike Threats Not Cause.

Strikes threatened by telephone and telegraph employees' unions had no bearing on the department's action, officials said.

Union N. Bethel of New York, of the operating board, now abolished, is chairman. The wire control board, which will continue, consists of John A. Koons, First Assistant Postmaster-General W. H. Lamar.

Operation of the land wires and also the cable systems was assumed by the Postmaster-General under order from President Wilson based on a congressional resolution of authorization for the step passed last July 16.

Attempts to unify the cable systems during the control period led to a controversy between the Postal Telegraph-Cable Co. officials and the Postmaster-General.

"The President having recommended the return of the wire systems and the control to the owning companies with certain legislation designed to stabilize their operation," Burleson said, "and the Senate committee having taken action looking for their immediate return, and the House committee, in its hearings on the proposed legislation, having indicated concurrence in the suggested immediate return with or without legislation so recommended, I feel it my duty to now return the actual control of operations to the companies."

"Some days ago I directed the necessary orders to be prepared to accomplish this and have today issued same. These orders do not affect questions of rates and finance, with which the Congress may determine to deal. The rates now in force and the financial relations between the Government and the companies, and the order of Dec. 2, 1918, prohibiting discrimination because of union affiliation, will continue, until the Congress, in its wisdom, may decide to change them, or the emergency is terminated by proclamation of peace."

"By the action now taken, however, the wire companies resume actual control of operations of their respective property, and are free to formulate and put into effect their own policies unrestricted by Government control, which is to continue in any case but a few weeks, and thus will be able to prepare themselves for a complete resumption of the stops on the street when the dead passes by."

"Will it not be your boast in 1920," asked Senator Borah, turning to the Democratic side of the chamber, "that, if the league of nations passes, you have kept us out of war?"

Senator Thompson paid a tribute to the President, who he said, had borne the greatest burden ever placed upon the shoulders of any man, a burden which had made it necessary for him to act in some cases as an "arbitrator of some of the greatest problems that ever existed since civilization began."

Polk's Statement.

The following statement was issued last night by Acting Secretary Polk:

"My attention has been called to a statement that appeared in the newspapers the morning of Wednesday, June 4, and quoted by Senator Lodge in debate today, to the effect that I had stated certain parts of the peace treaty were in the hands of financial interests in New York."

"I made no such statement. I was asked by a representative of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, on the afternoon of Tuesday, June 3, whether I knew of the existence of a copy of the treaty in New York referred to that day by Senator Lodge and the United States. For what reasons do India and New Zealand have votes in the assembly of the league and not the State of Minnesota? Are not the foreign relations of India and New Zealand completely controlled by Great Britain as are the foreign affairs of Minnesota controlled by the United States?"

Then he declared the Democrats already had made a party issue of the league and said he only complained because it took too much credit "from my friend, Mr. Taft, who now is being paid a great deal of attention, something as traffic

WIRE STRIKE ORDERED IN 10 SOUTHERN STATES

Head of Western Union Says Effect of Order Will Be Negligible.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Employees of the Western Union Telegraph Co. in Florida, Alabama, Georgia, South and North Carolina, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi and New Orleans, who are members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, were ordered last night to go on strike immediately by S. J. Koenekamp, president of that organization.

President Koenekamp said the strike order was issued in support of Atlanta telegraph and telephone operators who went out several days ago, and asserted that it would unquestionably be followed by a nationwide strike within a few days.

"I took the step immediately upon learning that Postmaster-General Burleson had ordered wires returned to the companies," Mr. Koenekamp asserted. "Authorizing a strike was taken some time ago, which has been held up to see if we could not negotiate a peaceable settlement. It is very likely that the strike will also involve the Postal company, but that cannot be determined yet."

Telegraphers' Union Head Here Expects Strike Order Next Week.

R. F. Wise, president of the St. Louis District of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, today said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he had received a message from S. J. Koenekamp, international president of the union, to the effect that "the South was the next."

Wise said that he interpreted that message to mean that a strike in the Southwestern States would be called the early part of next week.

"The strike, in its present phase, is effective about June 15," said Wise. "We will probably get our orders not later than Tuesday. The strike in St. Louis will be confined to the 400 operators employed at the local branch of the union. He said that the 'repeat men' at the Bell Telephone Co.'s St. Louis branch, who have strict orders to not call out the Postal operators. That company has treated the union fairly."

"The strike, in its present phase, affects Western Union operators alone. Although the Bell Telephone operators are affiliated with the International Electrical Workers, the city department of whether they quit work is to be discussed later in their own organization."

Wise said that the strike had resulted from the Western Union's attempt to break the union. He said that 1100 operators employed by that company were dismissed from the service a year ago for no other reason than that they had allied themselves with organized labor. Many of the men had since been re-employed, he said, but not reinstated. They were given jobs other than the ones they had formerly held, and were discharged on "trumped up excuses."

Western Union Men Walk Out in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, La., June 6.—New Orleans members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, employees of the Western Union Telegraph company, went on strike last night. Union officials said more than 60 walked out. Western Union officials said fewer than 20 struck.

Only 700 Western Union Men in Union, Says Carlton.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Newcomb Carlton, president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, declared last night that the strike of Western Union employees in 10 states would have virtually no effect on the Western Union service.

"Of more than 40,000 Western Union employees eligible for membership in the Commercial Telegraphers' Union," he said, "only about 700 are members of the organization. In the territory covered by Koenekamp's order, less than 400 of our employees are members of that union."

MEETING OF RETURNED SOLDIERS

Permanent Organization of Club Planned for Tomorrow.

A mass meeting will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Soldiers' Sailors' and Marines' Club, 1214 Olive street, which all returned men are urged to attend. Plans are to be announced for the permanent organization of the club, which is under the auspices of the War Camp Community Service.

Charge Koons Makes.

Koons charged that the Postal avoided Government business, made no special effort to expedite it, and transferred to the Western Union large numbers of Government messages filed with it for delivery in cities at which it maintained offices. Information upon which the charges were based, he said, was obtained by inspectors from the records of the company. There was no evidence, however, to show intentional delay by the Postal, he said.

Enactment of legislation which would compel all wire companies to accept Government and all other business offered it, without attempting to take the cream of it, was urged by Koons, who declared that every company should handle its own proportion of unprofitable traffic. It was his belief, he said, that in view of the general increase in business everywhere, if the Government could retain control of the telegraph companies until August 1, and the telephones until the end of the year, they could be restored to their owners without deficit.

COUNCIL OF THREE TRYING TO DISPOSE OF ITALIAN ISSUE

George's insistence on a plebiscite to determine the ownership of the rich mining and agricultural districts of Upper Silesia. The Polish rejoinder admitted that the frontier as originally determined included a certain number of Germans, but on the contrary left in Germany the districts of Flenne, Bonast, Grosswartenburg and Hanslau, the population of which it was declared was predominantly Polish, the boundary commission having been formed to ignore these minor objections in order to draw a practicable frontier. The rejoinder added that if changes were made they should not be one-ended. A plebiscite for Upper Silesia was declared to be unacceptable for Poland.

Objections to Plebiscite.

The Poles fear that the influence of the German Catholic clergy in the agricultural region, constituting the western half of the disputed area, would give a pro-German result to the plebiscite. The mining region of Katowice and Biala, then exposed on the frontier of Poland like Briel was in France in 1914. They also raise another strategic question against the allocation of Upper Silesia to Germany. It is pointed out that even the frontier as originally drawn left a deep slice of German territory cutting in between Poland and Czechoslovakia, and that the addition of upper Silesia would extend this tongue of land from which the German armies could operate effectively between the two new states.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, German foreign minister, today sent a formal letter of protest to the peace conference complaining that the armies of occupation in Germany are arbitrarily protecting and favoring the individuals who are attempting to establish a Rhenish republic. The protest added that the armies also are preventing loyal Germans from manifesting counter feelings.

Behind the successful protest of the new small states against the limitation of armaments lies the story of Jugo-Slav jealousy of Italy and apprehension on the part of all the small Entente Powers in Eastern Europe that the large nations may not, after all, prevent future wars.

Although a general principle incorporated in the covenant of the league of nations provided that the limitation of the armaments of the armed and the disarmed should be a matter for subsequent examination by the league, the Council of Four fixed in the Austrian treaty the various strengths of the armies which all the states inheriting parts of the Hapsburg monarchy should maintain.

Jugo-Slavs Protested.

This evoked one of the principal protests at last week's plenary sessions of the peace conference. The Jugo-Slavs, in particular, declared that it was unfair to limit their armaments, and leave their great rival, Italy, with complete freedom in this respect. The Poles, who are firmly convinced that they may be compelled at no distant date to wage war for the purpose of defending their independence, and do not wish to see themselves and their natural allies restricted in the means of defense, also demanded elimination of this provision.

The Council of Four has informed the Grand Vizier of Turkey in answer to his request that it is ready to hear him, not as a Turkish plenipotentiary but rather in the character of a witness, in the case of Turkey.

Dr. Karl Renner, Chancellor of Austria and head of that country's peace delegation, who with five colleagues has been at Feldkirch for a conference with Dr. Otto Bauer, the German-Austrian Foreign Minister, is expected to arrive in St. Germain tomorrow.

"GOLDEN GHOST" BOLSHEVIK SPY

Woman Well Supplied With Money Aids Lenin and Trotsky.

By the Associated Press.

ZURICH, June 5.—Testimony was adduced in the trial of the pro-German agents and anarchists yesterday that Lenin and Trotsky, the Russian Bolshevik leaders, aided the plot to overthrow their agent, Madame Babalova, known as the "Golden Ghost," because she always had plenty of money and always disappeared when a locality became too warm for her to remain in.

One of the accused Italian anarchists, a man named Restelli, remarked to the examining Judge: "Our comrades already are at work in America, as the newspaper dispatches show."

money better had been in its own pocket."

Bates told Judge Lamm that there might be no criticism of the orders asked for by the receiver, a policy of notifying every interested person that the orders would be asked for, and by him, and that he had received acceptance of the notification from all except Henry S. Priest, who refused to accept notice.

Bates attached to each application an affidavit stating that notice had been served on Priest.

Judge Lamm suggested that the precedent might prove burdensome and that it was not a precedent proceeding, but Bates said no matter how burdensome it became, the practice would be followed.

DAUGHTER'S MARRIAGE A SHOCK TO DREXELS

Parents of Heiress Who Married Army Flyer Say They Had Never Met New Son-in-Law.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Miss Alice Gordon Drexel, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Drexel, of 1240 Sixty-second street, and one of the most widely known young women of society in New York, Newport and Philadelphia, was married yesterday to Capt. William Barrett, air force, U. S. A., not only taking their most personal friends but her parents completely by surprise.

The romance of Miss Drexel, who is one of the great heiresses of this country, and Capt. Barrett, was of such recent development that Mr. and Mrs. Drexel were unaware of their attachment and members of the family confessed their utmost surprise when they were informed of the wedding some time after it had taken place.

Miss Drexel left her residence at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, leaving word that she expected to return for luncheon. Her continued absence only was explained to her parents when they learned of her marriage. When questioned about the marriage of her daughter last night Mrs. Drexel made this statement:

"Mr. and Mrs. Drexel have not had the pleasure of meeting Capt. Barrett and know nothing whatever about him. Their daughter's wedding is, therefore, both a surprise and shock to them."

Married at New Rochelle.

Miss Drexel's secret marriage to Capt. Barrett took place in New Rochelle, N. Y., at half past 5 o'clock in the afternoon in the home of Rev. A. Bouton, pastor of the New Rochelle Methodist Episcopal church. They had obtained their marriage license only a short time before and went directly to the clergyman's house from the local marriage license bureau. In obtaining the license Miss Drexel gave her age as 27 and he gave his as 31.

The only witnesses of the wedding service gave their names as Stanley Fargo of New York, who acted as best man for the bridegroom, and Miss Margaret Graydon of New York, who was Miss Drexel's bridesmaid. They started for New York immediately after the ceremony with the expectation of stopping for the present at the St. Regis Hotel.

Minister Tells of Wedding.

When the Rev. Mr. Bouton was asked for details of the wedding he said:

"All I can tell you is that Miss Drexel and Capt. Barrett came to me at half past 5 o'clock with their marriage license, which they had just obtained, and asked me if I would marry them. As the license revealed the fact that each was of age I did not hesitate to perform the ceremony, as I have performed others under similar and such regular circumstances. After the usual exchange of felicitations and my congratulations to the couple, they started for New York. I believe it is their intention to stop for the present at the St. Regis Hotel, as he requested me to communicate with him there in a day or two."

When the Rev. Mr. Bouton was asked if he knew whether or not the parents of the bride were aware of the marriage he replied: "I was not so aware as I did not ask them such a question. I performed the ceremony, as each was of age and as they had obtained the necessary license."

"Now that I have told you all I know of the wedding details, such as they were, perhaps you can tell

PALMER NOT TO LET ANARCHISTS STAMPEDE HIM

Doesn't See Necessity for Extra Legislation; Holds View He Has Plenty of Law to Punish Criminals.

THEORY REDS' PLAN IS PSYCHOLOGICAL

Would Like Extreme Repression, It Is Thought, to Help Them Create Revolutionary Sentiment.

By DAVID LAWRENCE, A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Washington has settled down to analyze the meaning of the bomb outrages in cool, dispassionate fashion. Opinions vary. Some attribute to the anarchists a short-sighted policy of assuming that the assassination of a few public officials would terrorize the country and paralyze the hands of justice. Others credit the bomb throwers with more intelligence and with a subtlety of purpose that has its analogy in the way the German plotters sought vainly to impair the war efforts of the United States.

The Germans used war lies and rumors to spread distress and discontent among the masses, who were given to understand that the Government was taking away personal liberties, executing innocent persons and running things with a high hand.

The anarchists and Bolsheviks who have tried to gain a foothold in the United States have tried in different ways to undermine America's social structure in the last six months, but have failed.

Labor has remained unmoved by the propaganda of the "reds." Demonstrations and parades have been squelched by soldiers and sailors and civilians. The revolutionary spirit has been given a black eye. How could it be revived and stimulated? Possibly by inducing the Federal Government to do the very things which the Bolshevik propagandists have been accusing it of practicing—persecution on a wholesale scale.

If Congress could be stampeded into passing laws interfering with public assembly and radical publications; if the Department of Justice could be influenced to sanction the upbuilding of a large unofficial body of detectives prying into private affairs, then there would be a continuation of the restlessness which showed itself during the war, and the reaction against the Government would breed revolutionists.

What Many Are Taught.

The foregoing theory appeals as plausible to those who have studied the psychology of the revolutionist proclamations and the various movements in the United States which display a vindictiveness toward the Government. There is in this country today a large body of people who are being taught daily that Eugene V. Debs and other American citizens who were put in prison during the war and have not yet been released were persecuted for "thinking" and not "acting."

Efforts to secure a general amnesty for all persons convicted of taking against the war have been steadily growing. Many persons of prominence who are not at all identified with the "red" movement, but who want to see it nipped have been urging President Wilson, for instance, to pardon those offenders. The subject has been taken up by letter and cable with the President at Paris and is one of the factors that must be taken into consideration in studying the plans and plots of the anarchists who are preying upon those sections of the country where friends and others in sympathy with persons convicted of anti-war utterances reside.

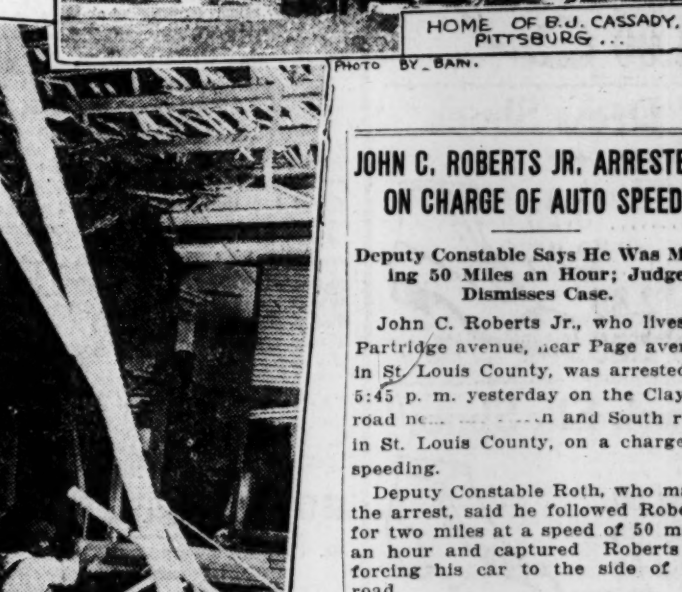

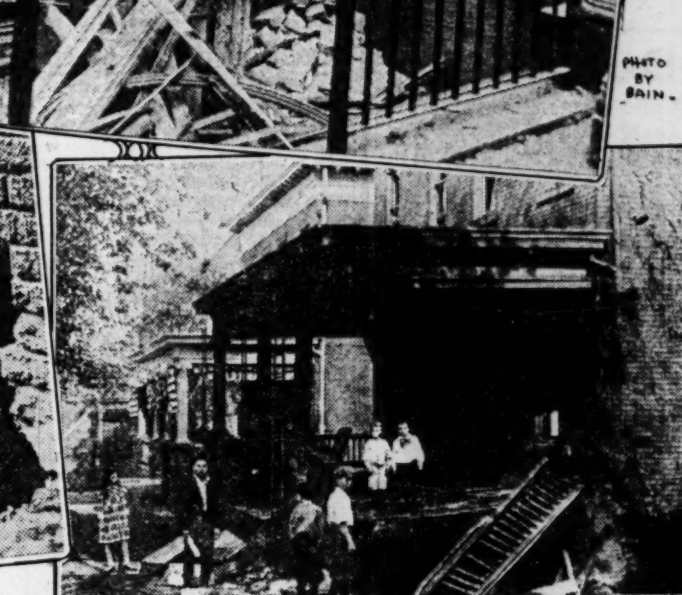

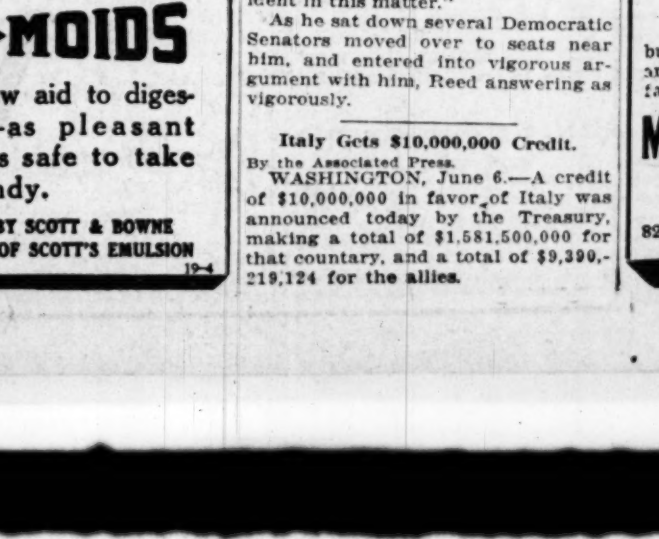

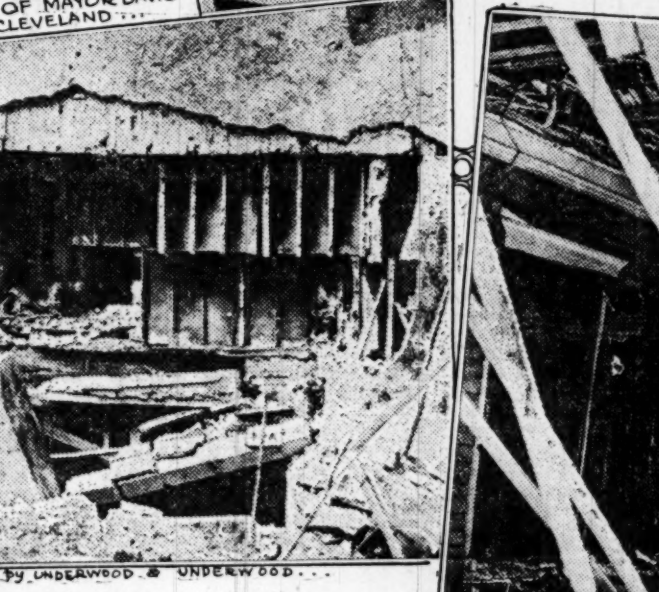

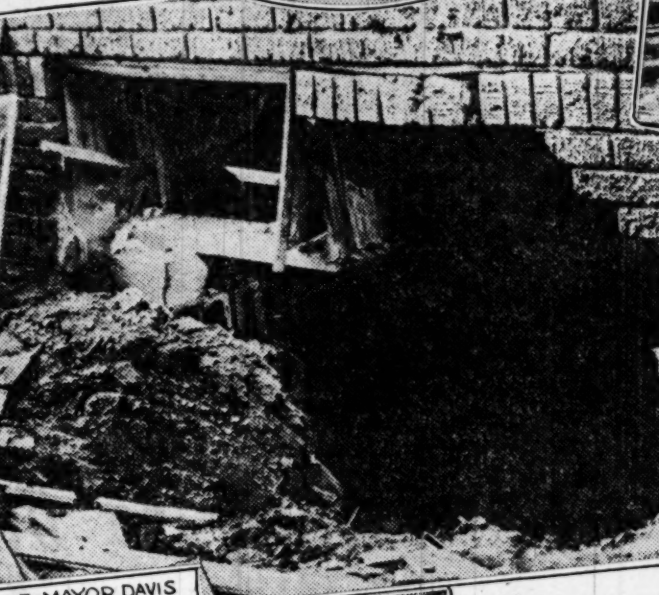

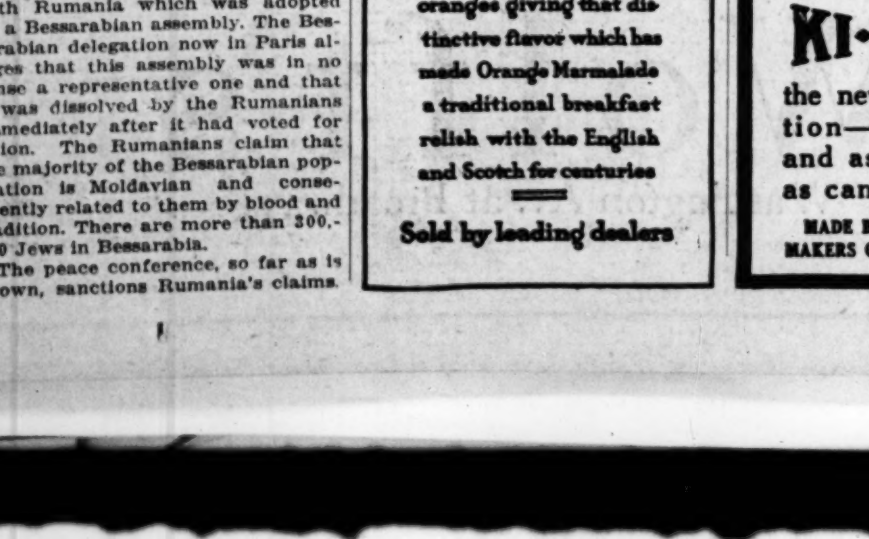

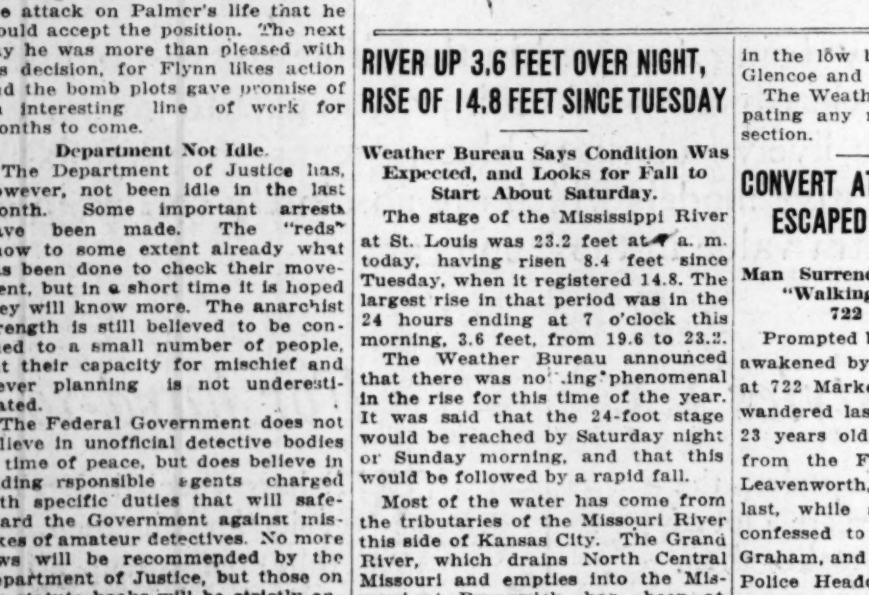

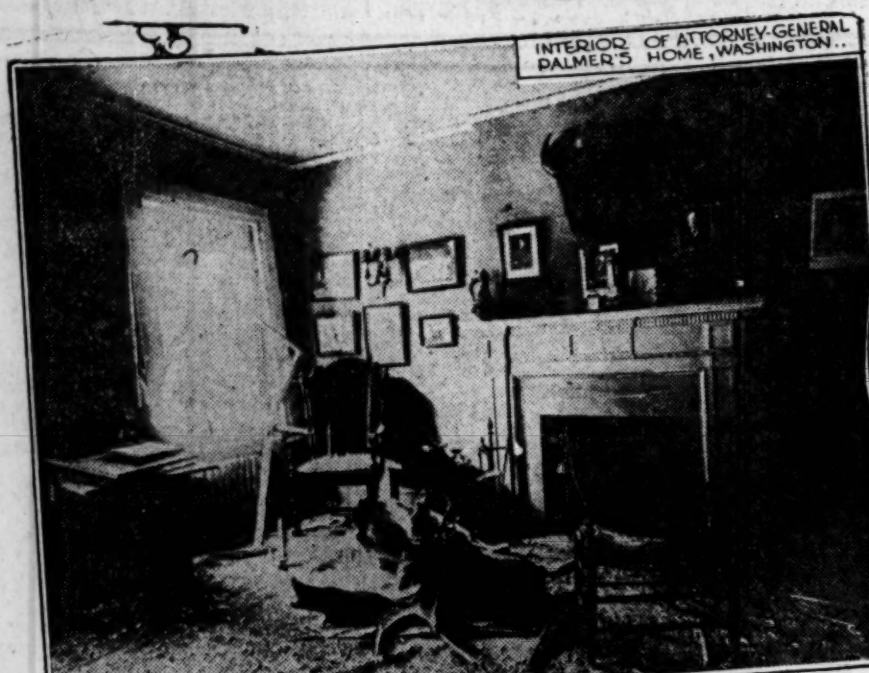

Attorney-General Palmer said he hoped it would be made clear that the Department of Justice was neither cowed nor stampeded by the recent bomb outrages. Also he has said that he doesn't see the necessity for extra legislation. He believes bomb throwers should be treated as any other criminals, and there is plenty of law to apprehend and punish those who are seeking to make physical and political war against our institutions.

Palmer to Go Carefully.

But no such policy will be pursued by the Department of Justice at least, though Congress is being bombarded with all sorts of requests to re-enact the very kind of legislation that so many conservative minds in Washington fear would do more harm than good. Trouble enough occurred during the war in trying to draw the line between proper and improper utterances and writings, and the Attorney-General's answer to the bomb throwers and conspirators is the appointment of two men with full powers of investigation—Frank P. Garvin, who will be Assistant Attorney-General, and William J. Flynn, who will act under him as chief of the Bureau of Investigation.

These are names to conjure with.

RESULTS IN CONTEST FOR ST. LOUIS U. SCHOLARSHIPS

James C. Farley Wins Honors Over Competitors From Fifty-Nine Parochial Schools of City.

Results of the contest for the Doyle Scholarships, in which 193 students who had just completed the eighth grade in the parochial schools competed, was announced today by Father Patrick J. Phillips, vice president of St. Louis University, who directed the contest.

The highest grade was made by James C. Farley of the St. Francis Xavier School. He wins a scholarship in the university academy, and also four years in the college. Its financial value is equivalent to the tuition charges of the academy, $125 a year for four years ($500), and the charges of the college, $100 a year for the same length of time ($400), or $900.

The other winners are entitled to scholarships in the academy alone. They are Victor Lehmkuhl of St. Henry's Parish, Lea Luning of St. Pius, Thomas Cooney of the Immaculate Conception of Maplewood, Leonard Schick of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, Joseph Gottwald of St. Leo's, and John L. Brennan of St. Cronan's.

Representatives of 59 schools competed.

FEED DEALERS SEEK FEDERAL REGULATION OF PRODUCTION

President of Association Tells Convention Large Volume of Business Is in View.

The American Feed Manufacturers' Association yesterday opened a two day convention at Hotel Statler. The organization represents feed dealers and feed manufacturers in the United States, and is designed to assist in the enactment of laws on the industry. L. F. Brown of Milwaukee, secretary, said yesterday that the association hopes to gain Federal regulation of feed production and competition.

Harold A. Abbott of Chicago, president of the association, responded to Mayor Kiel's address of welcome, declaring a large volume of business is in view for the feed men. At the afternoon session the need of cooperation in standardizing feed production was pointed out by Dr. J. W. Kellogg of Harrisburg, Pa. Practical experiences in the feeding of hogs and other livestock at a number of college agricultural stations were discussed at the afternoon session.

WALSH HANDS IRISH QUESTION INQUIRY DEMAND TO WILSON

Wants Conference to Investigate; Request to Italians or British Colonies unless President Acts.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 6.—Frank P. Walsh, one of the delegates of the Irish societies in the United States who visited Ireland recently, has presented a demand to President Wilson that the peace conference investigate the Irish question. His demand is accompanied by a 6000-word report on the observations made by Walsh and his colleagues, Michael J. Ryan and Edward F. Dunne, during their visit to Ireland.

In the event of Mr. Wilson's failure to push the matter, Walsh says he will present his request to the Italian delegates and, failing there, to the British colonies.

JOHN C. ROBERTS JR. ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF AUTO SPEEDING

Deputy Constable Says He Was Making 50 Miles an Hour; Judge Dismisses Case.

John C. Roberts Jr., who lives on Partridge avenue, near Page avenue, in St. Louis County, was arrested at 5:45 p. m. yesterday on the Clayton road near South and South road in St. Louis County, on a charge of speeding.

Deputy Constable Roth, who made the arrest, said he followed Roberts for two miles at a speed of 50 miles an hour and captured Roberts by forcing his car to the side of the road.

Justice Henry Stecker today, by agreement with Roberts, dismissed the charge upon payment of $9.10 costs by Roberts. He admonished Roberts to keep his speed down in the future.

RIVER UP 3.6 FEET OVER NIGHT, RISE OF 14.8 FEET SINCE TUESDAY

The stage of the Mississippi River at St. Louis was 23.2 feet at 4 a. m. today, having risen 3.4 feet since Tuesday, when it registered 14.8. The largest rise in that period was in the 24 hours ending at 7 o'clock this morning, 3.6 feet, from 19.6 to 23.2.

The Weather Bureau announced that there was no "ling" phenomenon in the rise for this time of the year. It was said that the 24-foot stage would be reached by Saturday night or Sunday morning, and that this would be followed by a rapid fall.

Most of the water has come from the tributaries of the Missouri River this side of Kansas City. The Grand River, which drains North Central Missouri and empties into the Missouri at Brunswick, has been at flood stage for several days and is just beginning to fall.

The Osage, an Osark stream, entering the Missouri just below Jefferson City, is about bank full, but there is no indication that it will overflow. The Gasconade, below the Osage, is full, but in no danger of a flood.

The heavy flow from those rivers has been augmented by a great abundance of water from the upper Mississippi, which is almost at flood stage at Hannibal.

The Meramec is out of its banks.

CONVERT AT MISSION SAYS HE ESCAPED FROM LEAVENWORTH

Man Surrenders to Police After "Walking Up" at Services at 722 Market Street.

Prompted by a troubled conscience awakened by a sermon in a mission at 722 Market street, into which he wandered last night, Earl Huffman, 23 years old, who says he escaped from the Federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., on March 26, last, while serving two sentences, confessed to the missionary, L. E. Graham, and with Graham walked to Police Headquarters and surrendered.

"I feel better today than I have felt in years," Huffman told reporters today in his cell. "I feel like a ton has been lifted off my mind. Last night was the first good night's sleep I've had in weeks."

Huffman said his home was in Ohio. He said that while in the army last September he was given a 10-year sentence for larceny, and a year's sentence for infraction of the military code. He was serving these sentences when he escaped. He said he had since wandered about the country, jumping at the sight of every policeman he encountered.

REED ASSAILS CUMMINGS AND TUMULTU FOR THEIR ACTIVITY

Refers in Senate Debate to Missouri Visit—Colleagues Argue With Him.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Senator Reed of Missouri made his first comment on the recent visit of Democratic National Chairman Homer Cummings and Secretary Tumulty to Missouri last week, in the course of the Senate debate last evening. Reed appeared much incensed over the action of the Democratic State Committee in endorsing the league of nations, and particularly the part the two national party leaders had played.

Senator Borah of Idaho had been telling of the efforts of the Democratic National Chairman to line up state committees for the league covenant, asserting it was ample proof of President Wilson's intentions of making the league fight a party matter.

"It may be of interest to the Senator to know," Reed interrupted, "that the Democratic National Chairman, accompanied by the secretary to the President, are touring the country under the guise—well, I won't attempt to characterize it as it deserves to be—well, we will say, under the guise of consulting over the party welfare in the states, when their real purpose is to obtain endorsement of the league of nations by the state committees, and thereby commit the Democratic party as a party to the league and peace treaty before the American people even have been permitted to have the text of the peace treaty."

Furthermore, Mr. Cummings is representing himself as the personal representative of the President in this matter."

As he sat down several Democratic Senators moved over to seats near him, and entered into vigorous argument with him, Reed answering as vigorously.

TO FIGHT AMERICAN PACKERS

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 6.—The New Zealand Government has received advice from London indicating that Great Britain will ask New Zealand to help her fight the American packers, says a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Christ Church, New Zealand. The suggestion is that an agreement be made to sell New Zealand's meat products in London at a certain price. Then, adds the dispatch, "if the trust reduces prices, Great Britain and New Zealand must beat it on its own ground."

A conference of New Zealand producers, it is added, has been convened to discuss the subject.

BESSARABIA SEEMS TO AVOID ABSORPTION INTO RUMANIA

Delegation at Paris Wants Privilege of Self-Determination Through a Plebiscite.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, June 5.—Bessarabia, with a population of nearly 3,000,000 and an area larger than that of Denmark or Belgium, is making a vigorous effort to avoid absorption into Rumania and to obtain the determination of its own future through a plebiscite.

Since early in 1918 Bessarabia has been virtually a Rumanian province, occupied by Rumanian troops and dominated by them. The Rumanians have a director-general there and claim the right to control the country because of a resolution to unite with Rumania which was adopted by a Bessarabian assembly. The Bessarabian delegation now in Paris alleges that this assembly was in no sense a representative one and that it was dissolved by the Rumanians immediately after it had voted for union with Rumania.

The Rumanians claim that the majority of the Bessarabian population is Moldavian and consequently related to them by blood and tradition. There are more than 300,000 Jews in Bessarabia.

The peace conference, so far as is known, sanctions Rumania's claims.

Palmer to Go Carefully.

But no such policy will be pursued by the Department of Justice at least, though Congress is being bombarded with all sorts of requests to re-enact the very kind of legislation that so many conservative minds in Washington fear would do more harm than good. Trouble enough occurred during the war in trying to draw the line between proper and improper utterances and writings, and the Attorney-General's answer to the bomb throwers and conspirators is the appointment of two men with full powers of investigation—Frank P. Garvin, who will be Assistant Attorney-General, and William J. Flynn, who will act under him as chief of the Bureau of Investigation.

These are names to conjure with.

LONDON, June 5.—The Bolsheviki have recaptured Sarapul on the Kama River southwest of Perm, which was one of the important towns taken by Admiral Kolchak's forces in their spring advance, a Bolsheviki wireless message claims. The dispatch also asserts that the Bolsheviki are continuing to advance in this region.

SHELL-SHOCKED SOLDIER IS TAKEN TRYING TO CASH CHECK

Du Bois, Pa., Man Had Left Home While Treatment Was Being Arranged for Him.

Emmett Boyle, 23 years old, of Du Bois, Pa., an overseas soldier, suffering from shell shock and wounds, who disappeared from his home early in May and for whom a search since has been made, was taken into custody at the National Bank of Commerce at 5 p. m. yesterday and is held at the city hospital for his parents.

Police received a message from J. M. Griesman, Commissioner of Public Safety at Du Bois, several days ago, asking them to seek Boyle here, stating he was mentally irresponsible for his actions, due to the shock and wounds. It said he had left home while treatment was being arranged for him.

Investigation disclosed that last Saturday Boyle visited the bank and presented a check for $100 signed by himself. The bank held up the check and told Boyle to return later. Meantime they wired the Du Bois bank on which the check was drawn. In this manner Boyle's whereabouts was learned by the officials there and a second message to police told them to watch the bank for his appearance. When he walked in yesterday to inquire about the check detectives were awaiting him.

VIMY TO USE U. S. SEXTANT

Instrument Was Designed for Flight of American Seaplanes.

ST. JOHN, N. S., June 5.—Capt. John Alcock, head of the Vimy transatlantic flight expedition, has received notice today from the United States Navy Department that the use of the Byrd-Buddle sextant had been granted for his voyage.

Lieut. A. W. Brown, navigator of the Vimy, held long consultations with Lieutenant Commander R. E. Byrd Jr., who designed the sextant for the flight of the American seaplanes, when Byrd was on his way home from Trepassey last month, and it was as the result of this that the request for the use of the instrument was made. Both Alcock and Brown were more than pleased by the word from Washington.

Every effort is being made to have the Vimy ready for the take-off by Wednesday.

JURY REDUCES TAILOR'S BILL $10

Twelve Men Draw $3 Each and Decide Suit Doesn't Fit.

When Morris Winer, an East St. Louis shoe dealer, tried on a new suit of clothes made for him by the J. Rothschild Tailoring Co. of East St. Louis, he decided it misfitted about $10 worth and refused to pay that amount on the purchase price of $40.

The tailoring company sued and obtained judgment in justice court. Winer appealed to the City Court and yesterday a jury of 12 men at $3 a day spent the entire day hearing the case.

In the end Winer donned the suit. The jurors decided the sleeves were too short and that the coat didn't button properly and that $10 was a just subtraction for the defects.

EGYPTIAN HUSTLERS PARADE

St. Louis Candidate for Head of Organization.

The seventeenth annual meeting of the Egyptian Hustlers of Southern Illinois was opened yesterday at Okawville with a white suit parade of the Hustlers, followed by an automobile procession in which several hundred machines participated. Mayor Fisher declared a holiday. About 300 Hustlers were present. Nashville won the silver loving cup for the largest number of automobiles at the meet.

W. J. Riley of St. Louis was mentioned as a popular candidate for the presidency. Centralia, Carbondale and Duquoin are contesting for the next convention.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OF WORLD

Step Toward Formation Taken at Washington Convention.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 5.—The first step toward the formation of an international anti-saloon league was taken today by the national convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America when a tentative constitution for the international organization was submitted to the convention by a special committee composed of representatives of the American League and foreign prohibition organizations.

The proposed constitution provides for effective co-operation in the movement for world-wide prohibition and it is believed will be ratified by the convention after brief consideration.

NEW SWINDLE TRAPS TEXAN

Guadalupe Velasco of El Paso, Tex., was the discoverer and victim of a new sharper's game at Union Station yesterday. He pointed out to the police a washroom adjoining the baggage room as the place where he washed his face and hands after alighting from the train.

When he had finished, he said, a man tapped him on the shoulder and demanded $2. Velasco paid it and sought a policeman to complain. The room is not one of the regular washrooms at the station, and so far as the police ascertained the man who received the $2 was not an employee at the station.

DEADLOCK IN PARIS STRIKE

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, June 5.—The strike situation was stationary this morning. Transport workers at meetings held yesterday pledged themselves to remain out until their demands were fully satisfied and subway employees passed resolutions expressing contempt for "persons who have been insinuating that Bolshevism is behind the strike." The metal industries have made virtually no progress toward a settlement as yet. A meeting to consider the situation was held late last night by the executive committee of the General Labor Federation. In a statement published today, the more powerful railroad unions declare that they have decided that they are not called upon to take any measures in connection with the present disturbance.

BRITISH DRAMA IS ASSAILED

Frank Criticism Is Keynote of Speeches at League Meeting.
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, June 5.—Frank criticism of the British drama was the keynote of all the speeches at the inaugural meeting of the British Drama League yesterday, the well known actress, Lena Ashwell, inveighing against the "rottenness, lowliness and futility" of the present-day theatrical entertainment. Henry Arthur Jones said in an interview: "The English drama as a whole has never been in so degraded a condition as it is today."

A verdict of homicide was returned by a coroner's jury today at the inquest over William Saeetele, 26 years old, of 3919A Sullivan avenue, a discharged soldier, who was shot and killed yesterday afternoon by Herman C. Gastorf, 40 years old, of 3924 West Florissant avenue, after Gastorf's daughter, Ruth, 17, had told him she was attacked by Saeetele while returning with him from a wine garden early yesterday.

Witness Tells of Shooting.
Horne said he met Gastorf in front of the plant. They were old acquaintances, he said, and he stood talking with Gastorf, who did not seem excited and who asked him about several men who worked at the plant, but did not mention Saeetele. When Saeetele came out, Horne said, Gastorf spoke to him and then opened fire with a revolver, shooting five times. Saeetele fell dead.

After the inquest Gastorf was taken to the Circuit Attorney's office, where it was said the case would be laid before the grand jury. Assistant Circuit Attorney Feehan said that under the circumstances he would accept $2500 bail for Gastorf's release. This was furnished.

Girl at Coroner's Office.
At the Circuit Attorney's office Gastorf said: "I killed that man because he treated my daughter like a brute. He came to the house for her like a gentleman, but he didn't bring her back like a gentleman." Miss Gastorf went to the Coroner's office with her mother and uncle today. She was extremely weak and at times hysterical. She fainted and after she was revived in the Coroner's office her uncle carried her about in his arms to quiet her.

Four sisters of Saeetele visited the Circuit Attorney's office after Gastorf had been taken there. One of them mistook Gastorf's brother for Gastorf and accused him of murdering her brother. To avoid conflict with Saeetele's sisters, Gastorf was taken out a side door and escorted to Police Headquarters.

Gastorf had traced Saeetele to his place of employment at the motor truck plant after hearing his daughter's account of her experience and obtaining verification from the family physician. He waited outside the plant three hours.

How the Shooting Occurred.
Witnesses told policemen that when Saeetele emerged from the factory office, where he was a clerk, Gastorf approached him and said: "Are you William Saeetele?" "That's me," replied Saeetele. Gastorf drew a revolver and fired five times. Saeetele fell dead. It was found that three bullets had struck him, one of the wounds being in the head.

Gastorf ran to Broadway and boarded a southbound street car. A policeman commandeered an automobile and overtook the car and arrested him. He admitted the shooting and said he was on the way to the Angelica Street Police Station to surrender.

Arrived Home at 3 A. M.
Miss Gastorf is a toll clerk at the Bell Telephone Exchange. Her mother told policemen she met Saeetele a few weeks ago, just after he was discharged from the army. Wednesday night, she said, Saeetele called at the house to take her daughter out. They left there about 8 o'clock. Mrs. Gastorf said she sat up until about 3 a. m. when her daughter arrived home apparently dazed, with bruises on her chin and jaw and her clothing torn.

Dr. G. H. Wilson of 2504 North Fourteenth street was called. He told Mrs. Gastorf her daughter had been attacked and was suffering from physical injuries, shock and the effects of drink.

Miss Gastorf told policemen Saeetele called for her Wednesday night, saying he would take her to a show. He took her to Rosenbach's Garden at 4419 West Florissant avenue, she said, where she drank two highballs, three cocktails and some beer, and ate lunch.

DEMONSTRATIONS IN GERMAN CITIES WHICH GO TO POLAND Correspondent Tells of Children Singing "Deutschland Ueber Alles" in Parades.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
LONDON, June 6.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Bromberg, Posen, says: "I woke this morning in Bromberg, a purely German city in Posen. The sound of children's voices singing called me to my window and looking out I saw procession after procession with little flags and placards passing and repassing the hotel which commands the considerable square. By 9 o'clock the square was packed tight. They burst forth from the sea of faces 'Deutschland ueber alles.'"

"Demonstrations occur in each town I visit. Schneidmuhl has 24,000 inhabitants and fully 7000 pack the square. From a window the chief burgomaster says these few words: 'Shall we become Poles?' The reply is thundering. 'No, no, no.' Then on a call for a show of hands the crowd becomes a gigantic sea, shouting 'We will remain true to Germanism, even if we go down. The band strikes up, and 7000 voices sing 'Deutschland ueber alles.'"

English and American journalists have been touring the country which under the peace treaty will go to the Poles to learn the sentiment of the people.

BAKERS FAVOR ADVERTISING
Association in Convention Believes National Campaign Would Aid Business.

The Transmississippi Master Bakers' Association yesterday elected O. L. Jordan of Topeka, Kan., president, and selected Topeka as its next convention city. Elmer Zimmerman, Hannibal, Mo., was elected treasurer, and Otis B. Durbin, Kansas City, secretary. The Executive Committee voted to send three delegates to a conference in New York, June 9 and 10, between the United States Grain Corporation and the grain dealers, millers, jobbers and bakers.

In a resolution the Bakers' Association expressed the belief that a great good would be accomplished and "splendid results obtained from well planned and well executed campaigns of advertising in national advertising mediums to increase the consumption of bakers' bread."

Each of the state organizations included in the association re-elected former officers.

BOY DROWNS IN OLD QUARRY

Child, 9 Years Old, Slipped While Crawling; Body Recovered.
Frank Rosaly Jr., 9 years old, of 7017 South Broadway, was drowned in 20 feet of water in an abandoned quarry on Koenig street, near Polk street, at 8 o'clock last night, when he slipped into the water while crawling with other boys. The body was recovered with grappling hooks.

The quarry was protected three years ago by the city building a four and one-half foot fence about six feet from the edge of the bank. The boys, it was said, climbed this fence to get to the edge of the water to fish. Other boys who were with Rosaly became frightened when he fell into the water and ran to their homes to tell their parents.

Creator of Coney Island Dies.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 6.—Frederick Thompson, theatrical manager, famed throughout the country as the creator of Luna Park, Coney Island, and Toyland at the San Francisco Exposition, died here early today. Thompson accumulated a fortune in various amusement ventures, including the Hippodrome in this city.

BOY SCOUTS TO PARADE DOWNTOWN TOMORROW

Procession at 1 P. M. Will Open "Appreciation Week" and Campaign for $90,000 Fund.

Boy Scouts, upon whom St. Louis has called to do the chores of virtually every undertaking in the public interest during and before the war, will open what President Wilson has designated as "Boy Scout Appreciation Week" here tomorrow with a parade through the downtown section, which will be participated in by all the Scout troops in the city.

The parade will begin at 1 p. m. at Twelfth street and Clark avenue, and headed by the Jefferson Barracks Band, will move north on Twelfth street through the Court of Honor to Olive street, east to Broadway, north to Washington avenue, west to Twelfth street, and south through the Court of Honor. The reviewing stand will be occupied by Mayor Kiel and other city officials. In the stands will be the Citizens' Committee, which will work through the week for the Scouts, the Women's Committee and parents and friends of the marchers.

The amount asked for the Boy Scouts is $90,000 and those who are attempting to obtain that amount believe St. Louis should subscribe it in three days. The Scouts will establish their headquarters Monday, at Sixth and Olive streets, setting up a tent and during the week giving exhibitions of their learning, such as knot-tying, signaling and wireless telegraphy.

Representatives of every church, every woman's club and every war organization have volunteered to help in the drive, several hundred women undertaking a house-to-house canvass.

Department stores will give recognition of the merit of the appeal with special window displays. An advertising company has placed in street cars cards reading, "Now, let your heart go out to the American Boy Scouts."

BAKER TELLS ALLEN HE DOES NOT OPPOSE ARGONNE INQUIRY

Says Kansas Governor's Statement as to "Organized Inefficiency" Is Rather a Large Assertion.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Secretary of War Baker, in a letter to Gov. Allen of Kansas, again says that he is not opposed to a congressional investigation regarding the battle of the Argonne.

Baker's letter is in reply to a letter from Allen, May 18, in which Allen informed Baker he had just sent to the Senate Committee on Military Affairs the official report of the chief of staff of the First Army to the commanding General of the Thirty-fifth Division.

Baker says that the report of which Allen wrote probably "was a part of the records of the Thirty-fifth Division, which probably in the near future will be available to the War Department."

The Secretary refers to Gov. Allen's testimony before a congressional committee, in which he spoke of "that highly organized inefficiency that characterized every department of the army activity over there," and in his letter says:

"You must admit that this is rather a large assertion. It does not invite reply. Briefly, Governor, you are in no controversy with the War Department. The document to which you refer bears but slightly on any concrete allegation which you have made. Were it all, however, that is necessary to make clear every question that has arisen to our operation, would it not be well to await its arrival? The officer who wrote it is still in France. When he arrives it will be but one of many documents."

Commander of NC-4 and Naval Men on Other Craft Discuss Future of British Aviation.

LONDON, June 6.—Lieutenant-Commander Albert C. Read and his crew of the American seaplane NC-4, which made the successful transatlantic flight, as well as Com. J. H. Towers and others who handled the NC planes, were guests yesterday at a luncheon given by Major-General Seely, under-secretary for air, in the House of Commons.

The luncheon was given for the purpose of discussing the future of British aviation. The Prince of Wales, Lord Bordenhead, Lord High Chancellor, James W. Lowther, speaker of the House of Commons; the Earl of Reading, former ambassador to the United States; Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary for war; and Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig were present.

Gen. Seely, in proposing the health of Lieutenant-Commander Read, responding said: "The British people are good winners, but they are wonderful losers."

'COUNT,' ARRESTED, SAYS HE HAD BIG BARGE LINE PLAN

Max de Chimang, Held on $10,000 Forgery Charge, Declares He Had Prominent Men Here Interested.

If the St. Louis police had only let "Count" Max de Chimang alone, the Count declared in the headquarters holdover this morning, he would soon have had a line of self-propelling barges running between this city and South American ports. He said he had interested "the leading men of St. Louis" in his project, based on nautical inventions of his own. Not knowing the magnitude of his plans for the city's welfare, the police arrested Chimang at a downtown telegraph office yesterday afternoon, just as they would anyone else whose arrest the New York police requested and whom they could find readily. The New York charge involves $10,000, and the telegram to the police said that forgery and fraud were alleged.

Served Term for Bigamy.
Chimang's wife was found today at 1746 Missouri avenue, although he had said that she was in New York, and two trunks found at the house were examined. Cards in these trunks showed that Chimang was, as the police had believed, the same person as Max Lynar, who two years ago told a story of having been involved in a German plot to kidnap President Wilson and carry him to Mexico. At that time he was serving a term for bigamy on Blackwell's Island, New York City, and he offered to tell his full story if he were released. The officials did not evince great interest in his story, and he did not make the projected deal for his freedom.

Copies of letters were found recommending Chimang to Health Commissioner Starkloff, to Louis Spindler of the Lambert Pharmacal Co., and to Walter S. Dickey, Kansas City capitalist and politician, who is president of the Missouri River Navigation Co. The letters were apparently prepared to bear the signature of some third person, and told of Chimang's plans for a convertible merchant ship, battleship or barge, to cost $45,000. It was stated that he would work for eight weeks, producing a sample of these craft, for a stipulated sum.

At the time of his arrest, Chimang was sending a telegram to a woman in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., promising to send her money. He explained that he wished to keep the woman quiet as to his presence in St. Louis, as he feared she would inform the New York police. The police telegram asking for Chimang's arrest said he was a German, and looked like the former Kaiser. He does not look like a German, but if he ever looked like the head of the Hohenzollern family, the resemblance has been destroyed by the close cropping of his mustache.

"My father was a German nobleman, Prince Max de Chimang," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, in the holdover. "My mother was an Ohio woman, and I was born in this country, but was educated in Prussia, and was in both the German navy and army. I came to the United States and became naturalized. I am an inventor, and I have perfected new propelling and loading appliances which will be a great success if they can be put into use."

He Made a Mistake.
"William Barnard, a director of the Irving National Bank of New York, and known as the Salt King, became interested in my plan for a line of 50 ships from New York to the Pacific Coast and South America. I made the mistake of taking an endorsement of myself and my plan, on the letter paper of an engineering firm of high standing, and when Mr. Barnard found out that I had deceived him as to this endorsement, he jumped at the conclusion that my whole plan was a fake. He had given me $10,000, but he holds as securities my inventions, which are worth many times that amount. However, I had to leave New York. "Since I came to St. Louis I have been working on a plan which would have made this city practically a seaport, carrying on trade with South America in through barges, propelled by my device and needing no towboats, and without the need of reloading. If I have to go back to New York, St. Louis will not get the benefit of this plan."

POSTPONE 6-CENT FARE HEARING

Public Service Board Chairman Expects It to Be Held Here Later.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 6.—The hearing on the 6-cent street car fares in St. Louis before the Public Service Commission was postponed yesterday when W. S. McAdams, who said he represented the Referendum League, complained that he had not been served with notice of the hearing.

Chairman Busby said the hearing will be held in St. Louis on some day in this month, probably at the time of the hearing on the application of the United Railways Co. for increased fares in St. Louis and St. Charles counties.

During the first five months of 1919, the Post-Dispatch printed 2222 Lost and Found "Wants"—1578 more than the FOUR other St. Louis newspapers combined—and three times as many as the nearest competitor.

DEBATE ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Charles M. Hay Supports and Lee Meriwether Opposes Covenant.

Charles M. Hay and Lee Meriwether debated the League of Nations last night at a meeting of the Shaw District Improvement Association in the auditorium of the Bryan Mullaphy School, Klemm street and Shaw avenue. Hay supporting the League and Meriwether opposing it.

Hay analyzed the covenant by sections, pointing out the advantages to be derived from each in preventing future wars. Meriwether directed his opposition to Article 10, which, he contended, would obligate the United States to defend any other nation which might be attacked regardless of the merits of the dispute. Both Hay and Meriwether are Democrats.

SUES FOR DIVORCE AND DAMAGES

J. R. Bodine Asks $25,000 for Alleged Alienation of Affections.
Jesse R. Bodine of 3505 Winnebago street, president of the Bodine Pattern Co., 817 Market street, yesterday filed suit to divorce Mrs. Ella Bodine, alleging that she became infatuated with Julius H. Klein. He also filed suit against Klein for $25,000 damages for alleged alienation of his wife's affections.

The Bodines separated May 31 after being married 13 years. Klein is said to be a civil engineer. Mrs. Bodine has been a bookkeeper in her husband's office. Klein could not be reached for a statement.

To Reduce Your Weight

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight ten to thirty pounds, quickly and easily, go to any drug store and get a package of Phynola. Take five grains after each meal and at bed time.

Even a few days' use should show a noticeable reduction in weight, the flesh should become firm, the skin smooth and the general health improved. Phynola is pleasant to take, helps digestion and is designed to reduce the excessive fatty tissue by increasing the oxygen carrying power of the blood.

Every reader who is overweight should give this treatment a trial. You will probably find it is just what you need. Enderle Drug Co., Judge & Dolph, Wolff-Wilson, Keiffer Drug Co., and A. E. Medler, or any druggist can supply you.—ADV.

ENVOY DENIES MEXICO SEEKS TO JOIN LEAGUE

Secretary of Aguilar, Here on Way to Washington, Laughs at Diaz and Villa.

The Mexican Government is not expecting or seeking admission to the league of nations, according to Jose T. Torres, private secretary to Gen. Candido Aguilar, former Secretary of the Department of Foreign Relations in the Republic of Mexico. Gen. Aguilar is on a diplomatic mission to Washington and is stopping at the Jefferson Hotel. He declined to be interviewed, but delegated his secretary to speak for him to newspaper reporters.

Gen. Aguilar is accompanied by his brother, Silvestre Aguilar, a wealthy coffee merchant and banker of Cordova, Vera Cruz. His secretary, Torres, and Manuel A. Chavez are acting as secretaries of the mission. The party was met at Union Station upon its arrival yesterday afternoon by Edmundo E. Martinez, Mexican Consul at St. Louis.

Torres said that the nature of Gen. Aguilar's errand is such that discussion of it for publication is out of the question.

"You know the diplomatic business," he said, with a twinkle of the eye. "You can't talk about it before it starts."

Laughs at Bandits.

He denied the trip to Washington had anything to do with the league of nations, the alleged confiscation of foreign investments by the Carranza government, the seeking of financial aid for the purchase of munitions, or was connected in any way with any of the recent revolutionary movements in Mexico.

When revolution was mentioned he laughed. "There is only one government in Mexico," said he, "and that is the Carranza government. We do not look upon Diaz as the leader of a revolution. He is merely a rebel, and a very small one at that. Villa, he is nothing but a bandit. He makes no trouble except in small towns where his band hovers. While internal conditions in Mexico are not exactly as they should be, they are rapidly improving and the Government has things pretty well in hand. The alleged confiscation of foreign investments was no confiscation at all. The Government merely seized property that had been acquired wrongfully by private interests, and that has been amicably adjusted."

Jokes About Prohibition.
Torres jokingly remarked that Mexicans feel sorry for Americans because the United States is to become "dry" July 1. The business men of Mexico were glad, he said, because they believed that thirsty Americans will make business for Mexico.

After spending a few days in Washington, Torres said, the party would sail for Spain, and on the return trip would stop off at Paris. He said he did not think the party would get to see President Wilson.

WINNIPEG MAYOR FORBIDS PARADES OR CROWDS IN STREETS

Thousand Returned Soldiers as Special Constables Re-enforce Police Force.

By the Associated Press.
WINNIPEG, June 6.—In a formal proclamation published this morning, Mayor Charles F. Gray ordered the stoppage of all parades and forbade the congregation of crowds on the city streets. The general strike is entering its fourth week.

Strengthening of Winnipeg's police force by 1000 veterans as special constables caused an increase during the night in minor disturbances and personal encounters, but no unusual demonstrations occurred.

Several other unions joined the general strike at Vancouver yesterday, and coastwise shipping is almost completely tied up. Vancouver printers receded from their demands for censorship of strike news in the newspapers. At Calgary striking painters returned to work, and Canadian Pacific Railway men there who belong to unions voted not to join the strike. The Canadian Pacific has begun arrangements to fill the places of striking stewards with girls on their coastwise steamers.

THERE ARE FIVE WAYS of getting Want Ads to the Post-Dispatch office. Through your druggist, over your phone, by mail, by messenger or personal call—with no difference in prices.

THIEVES STRIP EMPTY BUILDING

Owner Says Structure Is Being Carried Away Piece-meal.

The building at 1329-31 Lucas avenue is being carried away piece-meal, according to a report made by the owner, John C. Craib, 5130 Enright avenue, to Chief O'Brien yesterday.

Craib appealed to the Chief personally because he said he believed that was the only way to save the remnants of the place. Recently, he said, he had expended $1000 in repairs on the building.

Two weeks ago, when he paid a visit to the building, which is vacant, he said he found the window glass, window sashes, copings and even some of the floor boards missing.

Yesterday he discovered that from 100 to 200 of the bricks from the top of the walls were gone.

Chief O'Brien instructed the Carr street police to pay a little more attention to that particular block and see that the thieves didn't carry away the lot.

WIFE RENOUNCES DRUMM WILL

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 6.—Taking a widow's portion of the estate of the late Maj. Andrew Drumm, which is valued at more than $2,600,000, Mrs. Cordelia Drumm has refused the provisions of her husband's will, according to a statement from the Probate Court yesterday. Mrs. Drumm was given this choice by the will of her late husband, which gave her $150,000, the home, and $10,000 a year for her support and maintenance. It is estimated that the State of Missouri will lose fully $200,000 in inheritance tax on account of Mrs. Drumm's decision.

SPECIMEN OF MAN-LIKE APE

Nearest to Human Smithsonian Collector Has Ever Seen.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 6.—Prof. R. L.
Garner of the Smithsonian Institute, Washington, who has been in the French Congo in Africa since December, 1915, arrived yesterday on the transport Chicago with four tons of specimens to be placed in the Smithsonian Institute, the principal exhibit being an ape, about the size of a man, which he said was the nearest to a human being of the ape family he had ever seen.
Capture of the beast was effected,
he said, by luring him within range of a rifle by imitating the female ape's cry of what sounded like
"Hoo-hoo" in response to the male ape's call of "Wha-hoo."

LAST PARADE OF OVERSEAS MEN AT 3 P. M. TOMORROW

2643 Soldiers of Gallant Eighty-Ninth Will Take Part in Longest Review
City Has Enjoyed.

TWO OUTFITS VOTE
NOT TO TAKE PART

Reception for 342d Field Artillery Will Take Place Before March, and That for 356th Infantry Afterward.

The last and largest of the parades of homecoming overseas units here will take place tomorrow afternoon, when four units of the gallant Eighty-ninth Division, with a total of 2643 men and officers, will march over a downtown parade route, starting from Fourteenth street and Clark avenue, north on Fourteenth to Washington avenue, east to Sixth street, south to Olive street, west to Eleventh street, and then into and through the Twelfth street Court of Honor. This is a change from the route previously announced. The parade will start at 3 p. m.

The four units, and two others which were expected until this morning to be in the parade, are on their way to Camp Funston for demobiliza-tion.

On Way From Camp Upton.
The units left Camp Upton, Long Island, on seven trains yesterday.
Their numerical strength and their parade orders, as shown in an official bulletin given out at Camp Upton before their departure, and their routing as announced by railroad officials, are:

The 342d Field Artillery, 31 officers, 1073 men; Eighty-ninth Division Military Police, 4 officers, 74 men; 164th Field Artillery
Brigade headquarters, 4 officers, 32 men; all in three trains over the Baltimore & Ohio; will parade in St. Louis, Jefferson City and Topeka.
The 356th Infantry, 37 officers, 1387 men, in three trains over the Wabash railroad and Eastern connections, will parade in St. Louis, Moberly and Kansas City.
The seventh train, which will arrive early tomorrow morning by the Pennsylvania, carries the 314th Field Signal Battalion, two officers and 151 men, and the 342d Machine Gun Battalion, seven officers and 202 men. They were authorized to parade here, in Kansas City and in Kansas City, Kan., but the commanding officer of the machine gun battalion wired to the Mayor's committee that two units did not wish to parade.

342d Will Arrive First.
The 342d Field Artillery is expected to reach St. Louis ahead of the 356th Infantry, and the relatives' reception for the 342d will take place in the City Hall plaza before the parade. The reception for the relatives of the 356th will take place in the plaza after the parade.

Tickets for grand stand seats in the reserved portion of the Court of Honor, between St. Charles and Pine streets, were being issued today by the Mayor's Welcome Committee, at its headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce, 510 Locust street, to relatives of the men in the six units, and to returned men of other units of the Eighty-ninth Division and their families. No tickets will be issued after today. The grand stand outside the reserved section will be open to the public.

There have been seven previous parades of homecoming units here, the largest thus far having been that of the 138th Infantry, the St. Louis National Guard regiment. It had not more than 2000 men and officers in line, including wounded men and those who returned ahead of the regiment. The other parades were those of the 354th Infantry, the 125th
Field Artillery, the 110th Supply Train, the Southwest Missouri machine-gun battalions, the Twelfth Engineers and Base Hospital Unit 21.

RESOLUTIONS SAY USE OF PARKS WILL GROW WHEN SALOONS GO

Resolutions adopted by the Committee on Parks and Recreation of the Chamber of Commerce, and approved by President Johnson and Secretary Bunn of the chamber, urging that the city find a way to increase rather than diminish the appropriation for parks and recreation, have been forwarded to Mayor Kiel.
President Aioe of the Board of Aldermen and Controller Nolte.
It is pointed out in the resolutions that after July 1, because of the closing of saloons, the parks probably will be used by thousands of persons who never before have frequented them, and that it is to the advantage of the city to have sufficient recreational facilities, which, the chamber says, will be a deterrent of crime and vice.

Young men returning from the army have for many months been accustomed to outdoor life, which they will wish to continue, the resolutions say, and the city should see that they are able to have sufficient outdoor sports for their leisure time.

KILAUEA, HAWAII'S GREATEST VOLCANO, OVERFLOWS CRATER

Federal Observer Says Mountain May Stage Spectacle Without Parallel This Summer.
Correspondence of the Associated Press.
HONOLULU, T. H., May 16.—
Kilauea, the great active volcano on the island of Hawaii, for weeks past has been unusually active, the lava column in the central fire pit having risen above the level of the floor of the main crater, sending streams of molten lava in all directions. One stream ran more than three miles in four days, forming a new lake of fire against the northern wall of the main crater. All records for rise of the lava column and length and duration of overflows have been broken.

It is probable, according to Prof.
Thomas A. Jaggar Jr., in charge of the Federal observatory at Kilauea, that the present overflows will continue until the approach of the June solstice, when a subsidence is likely.

Upon the extent of this movement much depends, for should it be small it is probable that late this summer Kilauea will stage a volcanic spectacle without parallel.
To the ancient Hawaiians, Kilauea was the home of Pele, Goddess of Fire, and many of the natives still regard the volcano with superstitious awe.

Slight Earthquakes at Seattle.
SEATTLE, Wash., June 6.—What seemingly was a local earth disturbance gave buildings in Seattle a slight shaking up about 10:30 o'clock last night, the disturbance being also felt as far as North Bend, Wash., about 45 miles from here. The University of Washington seismograph did not record the disturbance.

Fashion's Newest Fancies in Misses' Summer Frocks

With warmer weather now at hand, the need of several sheer summery dresses becomes more pressing.
We are showing a wonderful collection of Frocks that are sure to meet the approval of critical misses, at some very interesting prices.

At $25.00 —are Frocks similar to the illustration at the right, developed of printed organdie in flowered designs. The blouse is finished with round neck and has collar of white organdie with three rows of lace edging and three-quarter sleeves. The three tier effect skirt, with wide girdle of taffeta moire is quite smart.

Also scores of new organdie Frocks in colors or solid white for graduation wear. Printed voiles, nets and plaids and checked linen and gingham. Priced from $10.75 to $35.

At $49.75 As the center illustration shows, these Frocks are fashioned along straight, simple lines, the blouse in the Russian panel effect and the skirt with tunic and border of self material. These are fashioned of a handsome quality of tricotette and are appropriate for sports wear as well as dressier occasions.

Many other delightful Frocks of Tricotette, Shantung and novelty striped fabrics, priced from $30 to $52.50.

At $39.75 —are delightful Summer Frocks, resembling the one illustrated at the left. They are fashioned of beaded Georgette in straight-line style and trimmed with wide girdle and sash of satin.
Shown in pink, flesh, white, sable and navy.

Other Frocks of Georgette, Taffeta, Crepe de Chine, printed Georgette and combinations in a pleasing variety of styles—priced from $20 to $110.

Wash Frocks, $2.98 to $10

Unquestionably the largest and most varied collection of cotton Frocks in St. Louis. Every one is bright and new, having just arrived within the last few days.

Dyes Everything Which Can be Washed While You Wash It

ALMOST too good to be true, isn't it—this wonderful new invention—this soap which dyes while it washes without staining or spoiling the hands.

You wash—you rinse—and whatever you wash and rinse is a beautiful new fresh color! This color can be chosen from 15 fashionable shades—a regular rainbow to choose from.

Aladdin Dye Soap

Women everywhere use Aladdin to color their blouses and underwear, their stockings, their veils and their gloves, in the pretty tints they want them.

They dye curtains and draperies, pillows, hangings—all without extra work.

When any article needs washing, it can be made into new colors if you only wash it with Aladdin.

Aladdin Dye Soap comes in 15 fashionable colors—flesh, peach pink, salmon pink, pink, old rose, red, orchid lavender, light blue, dark blue, tan, gray, khaki, orange, yellow, green.

These Aladdin colors last through from 4 to 6 washings. Aladdin is usable to the last thin wafer.

HER MARRIAGE WILL TAKE PLACE TOMORROW

Miss Dorothy Livingston

SERIES OF WEDDINGS SET FOR TOMORROW

Among Them Will Be Marriage of Miss Dorothy Livingston and Norton Schuyler.

WEDDINGS are the order of the day tomorrow and seldom has one day witnessed as many as are scheduled to take place. One of the most important and perhaps the largest one will be that of Miss Dorothy Livingston, who will become the bride of Norton Schuyler. St. Peter's Episcopal Church will be the scene of the ceremony, which will be performed at 4:30 o'clock with the Rev. Z. B. T. Phillips officiating. Miss Marjorie Livingston will be her sister's maid of honor, and another sister, Miss Lorraine Livingston, will be bridesmaid. Little Isabel and Anita Fry will be the flower girls. Mr. Schuyler will have Paul Miller as best man and the ushers and groomsmen will be Donald Hudson, who is the fiancé of Miss Lorraine Livingston, and Christy Farrar, Glenn Russell, Hope Carleton, Towner Phelan, Robert Conroy and Lawrence Miller. A large reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Livingston of 49 Kingsbury place, will follow.

The marriage of Miss Lucile Woods to Stuart Markle is another notable wedding of tomorrow. It will take place at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Woods of 5291 Lindell boulevard, at 8 o'clock in the evening. Miss Frances Woods will be her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be the bridegroom's sister, Miss Lucy Butler, Miss Elizabeth Holliday and Miss Eleanor Stanard. John C. Roberts Jr. will serve as best man and the groomsmen will be Taylor Bryson, Jr., Henry Swift of Boston, James Crawford and Frank Hamilton Jr. About 200 guests have been bidden to the ceremony and reception which will follow.

Other important marriages set for tomorrow include that of Miss Gladys Isabel Moll to James W. Belleville, which will take place at noon at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Moll, of 5553 Bartmer avenue; that of Miss Winifred Gibbons, who will become the bride of James Brewster Austin at the Maple avenue Methodist Episcopal Church; and Miss Mary Evelyn Robinson to Allen Lamar Owens, which will take place at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Marie Erskine Robinson, of 6019 Washington boulevard. Mr. Tallon of Visitation Church, who is the bride's godfather, will officiate. Miss Dorothy Owens, the bridegroom's sister, will be maid of honor and his brother, Charles Owens, will be best man. Misses Rose McRae and Helen Niedringhaus will hold the ribbons. A small reception will follow the ceremony and Mr. Owens will take his bride to Tulsa, Okla., to reside.

Social Items

Mrs. Felix Anderson of 5813 Enright avenue has as her guest, her brother, Tom Martin, who has recently arrived from overseas with the 33d Division.

Mrs. Frank D. Miller of Webster Groves will entertain tomorrow with a garden supper in honor of her niece, Miss Elsie Haywood, who was graduated from Mary Institute today.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Ruebel and two children of 6150 Westminster place returned this week from a visit at Lexington, Mo., where they attended the commencement exercises and celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of Central College for Women and the commencement exercises of Wentworth Military Academy. Mrs. Ruebel is an alumna of Central College and Mr. Ruebel was formerly an instructor at Wentworth.

Mrs. Louisa Reitz of 5208 Maple avenue has announced the marriage of her daughter, Miss Violet Mercedes Reitz, to Curt Langheek of 4254 McPherson avenue, which took place on May 29. The couple have gone east on a honeymoon trip and after June 10 will be at home at the Statler Hotel.

Miss Dorothy Devoy of 5930 Pershing avenue has departed for a western trip to be absent a month.

Dr. and Mrs. William L. Clapper of 4955 McPherson avenue are being congratulated on the arrival of a daughter on Monday.

The Riverview Club will have a rose festival and dinner dance tomorrow evening. It is ladies' night and so that the anticipation of a "rose" evening may better be realized the ladies are requested to bring roses with them for the tables, where they can be obtained from their own gardens.

The Epistol Delta Omega fraternity will give a boat ride this evening on the St. Paul, leaving at 8:30 o'clock.

The following St. Louis people attended the graduation exercises at Western Military Academy, which closed last night with the senior prom: Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Condie, Miss V. M. Condie, Mr. C. D. Condie, Mrs. F. S. Bach and daughter, Mrs. J. E. Hubbs, Mr. G. F. Mayer, Mrs. B. L. S. 320 OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES OF MERCANTILE TRUST CO. DINE

Hold Their First Celebration Since United States Entered the War.

The Mercantile Trust Co., an organization of 320 officers and employees of the Mercantile Trust Co., dined at Hotel Jefferson last night, the celebration being the first which the organization has held since the United States entered the war. Festus J. Wade, president of the company, Mrs. Wade, John Scullin and a group of the directors and chief officers were at the head table. Features of the merrymaking were stories told by Harry Butler, a mock wedding ceremony for James J. McDonald, a bachelor, and feats of magic by a Chinese musician. The musician entered the dining room in a currency truck, propelled by Dave Smith, veteran negro porter of the trust company, who lately has been placed in charge of the files of the institution. J. Hugh Powers was master of ceremonies.

Whisky on Display in a Casket.
One of the signs of a long dry spell is the lying in state of a quart bottle of whisky in a saloon in a downtown building visited daily by many business and professional men.
The bottle is in a miniature casket,
like those used as samples by coffin drummers. There are the usual trimmings of tufted satin and floral embellishments and crepe.

Try Carnation
Creamed Potatoes

Recipe
Boil potatoes, 2 teaspoonful butter,
1 cup of Carnation Milk, diluted with the same amount of water, 16 tablespoons flour, salt and pepper. Cut the potatoes into small squares. Melt the butter, add the Carnation Milk, which has been mixed with the water;
heat the potatoes in this. When hot, stir in the flour, which has previously been mixed with a little cold Carnation Milk. Season to taste.

AM want to try new drug that dries up corns so they lift out.

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing freezone, the recent discovery of a Cincinnati man, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers.

A quarter of an ounce costs very little at any pharmacy, but is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.
You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn and instantly the soreness is relieved, and soon the corn is so shriveled that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the adjoining tissue.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.

U-BOAT WILL START FOR ST. LOUIS TODAY

Submarine to Leave New Orleans Under Orders to Remain Here July 1 to 4.

The surrendered German submarine UB-88, which has an official record of sinking 18 merchant ships, is scheduled to leave New Orleans today for St. Louis, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Her crew of four officers and 27 men are under orders to reach St. Louis by July 1 and remain through July 4.

At the same time the United States anti-submarine flotilla, consisting of the destroyer Isabel, the United States submarine K-5, two flying boats and two 110-foot submarine chasers, was at Memphis, preparing for the run to St. Louis, which is to begin tomorrow. A third submarine chaser, which came ahead of the flotilla, is now tied up in the river at Market street.

Flotilla May Beat Schedule.
The flotilla has been scheduled to arrive not later than Sunday, June 15 and to remain here a week, but it is now expected to reach here before the scheduled time. High water will continue through next week, and it is desired to take advantage of the prospective crest.

The flying boats, according to a dispatch from Memphis, will make a non-stop flight up the river to Cairo, Ill., and will await the arrival of the water craft before proceeding to St. Louis.

Depth May Not Continue.
The German submarine, according to official information, requires a channel depth of at least 15 feet for its safe passage. There will be a 15-foot depth during the crest of next week, but whether this will prevail until the last of the month, above Cairo, may depend on the rainfall north of here in the meantime.

CROW MEMORIAL FUND WILL PROVIDE AID FOR ART STUDENTS Entire Value of Property at Nineteenth and Locust Streets Will Provide Instruction for Thousands.

Instruction for thousands of students of art, through support of the School of Fine Arts of Washington University, and at the same time keeping alive for all time the memory of Wayman Crow, will ensue from replacing the old Art Museum, or Wayman Crow Memorial, at Nineteenth and Locust streets, with a modern commercial building. The property belongs to Washington University.

Discussing the ultimate effect of the change yesterday, Chancellor
Hall of the university said:
"The passing of the old Art Museum is the natural result of the drift of business westward, and emphasizes the advantage of erecting such memorials as buildings on the main campus of the university, where, based upon the history of universities, they are practically secure for hundreds of years. Anticipating some 15 or 20 years ago, however, the inevitable absorption of the museum site for business purposes, the university obtained the signatures of the heirs of the Wayman Crow estate to the perpetuation of the Wayman Crow Memorial in such manner as would finally carry out its original intention and purpose in bestowing
the property upon Washington University. To that intent the entire value of the property will hereafter be known as the Wayman Crow Memorial Fund for the advancement of art and its teaching. As this fund, under the terms of the improvement of the property, will become more lucrative, it in time will provide instruction in art for thousands of students through its support of the School of Fine Arts, and will keep alive for all time the memory of Wayman Crow."

LAUNDRY OWNERS TOLD TO ADVERTISE IN NEWSPAPERS

More Than 100 Attending Two-Day Convention of Missouri Association.

Andrew J. Goldrick, manager of the Grand Laundry and Cleaning Co., told the members of the Missouri Laundry Owners' Association, in annual convention at Hotel Statler yesterday, that constant and consistent advertising in the daily newspapers alone will solve the problem of greatest importance to the laundrymen.

The two days' convention, which is the thirteenth annual gathering, opened yesterday. Mayor Kiel welcomed the more than 100 laundrymen from all parts of the State. He was applauded when he declared that public recreation would not be denied the children of St. Louis on account of lack of funds.

"Never mind the money," he said.
"We will trust the Lord to show us the way to get it, and it is such a good work and so vital to the well-fare of our citizens that we have no fear but that He will show us the way."
In the absence of President W. A.
Roberts, who was prevented by illness from attending the convention, Chairman A. G. Hartley presided.
The convention will conclude with a dinner session tonight at which officers will be elected and the next meeting place selected.

Smartly Tailored Gingham Frocks are becoming and are so appropriate for morning wear. They come in almost every color.

Printed and plain Voile Frocks are trimmed with dainty lace and organdie.

Organdie Frocks have a way of being wonderfully effective when they are trimmed with tucks, ruffles and ribbon.
Tissue Frocks in figured patterns are almost as fine as Georgette and are cool and pretty. Sizes 14 to 20 years.

Summer Frocks of Georgette Crepe $24.75 to $75

Not only lovely but wonderfully practical are the cool
Frocks of Georgette crepe that are shown in many styles.
Besides the light colors and white there are figured and plain Georgettes that are unusually effective.

Paulette, Rayette and Tricolette Frocks $55, $65 up to $89

Decidedly the smartest Frocks for wear at the seashore and summer resorts are these Silk Frocks made in sports models.

HOUSE GETS BILL FOR $61,000,000 FOR RIVERS

Measure Offered by Newton Is for Improvement of the Mississippi, Ohio and Missouri.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, June 6.—Representative Newton of St. Louis introduced in the House of Representatives yesterday afternoon a bill calling for the immediate appropriation of $15,000,000 for continuing work on four river improvement projects already authorized by Congress. The bill would also give authority to the Secretary of War under whose direction the money will be spent to enter into contracts for the completion of the projects in three years at an additional cost not to exceed $46,275,288.

Newton said today that the bill was in conformity with the action adopted at the recent convention of the Mississippi Valley Waterways Association in St. Louis.

Congress is asked to make $4,000,000 immediately available for continuing improvements on the Mississippi with a view to making a permanent eight-foot channel from the mouth of the Ohio to St. Louis and a permanent six-foot channel from St. Louis to the mouth of the Missouri. For the completion of this project in three years, authorization is sought for contracts not to exceed an additional $12,350,000.

For the Missouri River from Kansas City, Kan., to the mouth, the bill would provide $3,000,000 immediately and permit the making of contracts for further expenditure of $8,500,000, in order to insure a permanent six-foot channel for the entire distance.

For deepening the Mississippi to six feet between the mouth of the Missouri and St. Paul, the appropriation and authorizations sought are respectively $2,000,000 and $6,425,000.

For continuing the building of locks and dams in the Ohio to obtain a nine-foot channel from Pittsburgh to Cairo, the amounts specified in the bill are $6,000,000 and $19,000,288.

The sums named in each case are those estimated by army engineers as necessary to complete the work and make it of permanent value.

Valley Association Dinner.
About 30 Senators, representing 22 states contiguous to the Mississippi River and its tributaries, attended a dinner given last night by the Mississippi Valley Association, made up of members of Chambers of Commerce and civic associations throughout the same territory. H. H. Merrick of Chicago, president of the association, said the session was designed to bring out community of territorial interest and to get joint action on legislation affecting the territory without regard to partisan lines.

A similar meeting, it was announced, will be held later with the object of interesting members of the lower house of Congress in the same object, after which formal organization will be attempted.
J. B. Morrow of Cincinnati, James E. Smith of St. Louis, president of the Mississippi Valley Waterways Association, F. C. Waterbury of Des Moines, F. Sillway of Moline, A. E. Pontillo of New Orleans and R. D. Bowen of the Texas Cotton Growers' Association were among those at the dinner.

Merrick said that a proposal for the Federal incorporation of an institution proposed by St. Louis banks for assisting in foreign trade operations through Gulf and South Atlantic ports to be known as the Banking Corporation of the Mississippi Valley might be laid before Congress later along with projects to improve navigation on the Mississippi and for the reclamation of swamp and arid lands.

Newton's Bill One of Three Proposed Last February by J. E. Smith. This is the first of three bills to be introduced at this session of Congress looking towards the revival of transportation on the Mississippi River system under a program outlined by President James E. Smith in his annual report to the Mississippi Valley Waterways Association in St. Louis in February. The program has since been adopted by the Mississippi Valley Association, which is a coordination of interests of the valley from the Twin Cities to New Orleans, and other organizations as far east as Pittsburgh.

The second of the bills to be introduced will provide compulsory coordination of rail and river lines and will forbid railroads to engage in their past tactics of rate-cutting to stifle river transportation.

The third of the bills will provide for a commission or bureau which will have direction of the inland waterways of the country, thus making them safe from possible railroad control.

Together, the three bills are expected to establish navigable channels so safe-guarded as to attract private investment in barge lines and thus bring about general revival of the use of natural highways of transportation.

PETITION TO OUST STROMBERG FROM EDUCATION BOARD FILED

Attorney-General Alleges Member Has Failed to Meet Tax Payment Requirements.

A petition in quo warranto, endeavoring to oust from office Ben P. Stromberg of 4458 Washington boulevard, a member of the Board of Education, was filed in the Supreme Court in Jefferson City yesterday by Attorney-General McAllister, who alleged that Stromberg, prior to his re-election to the board in 1917, had not paid taxes for three years, and for that reason was ineligible to hold the office.

McAllister said he filed the petition at the request of other members of the board, who feared that Stromberg's alleged disqualification would affect the validity of a proposed school bond issue. The Court gave Stromberg five days in which to file an answer.

TAFT SPEAKS AT BRYN MAWR

Declares Party Opposition to League of Nations is Inexcusable.
By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Former President William H. Taft was the orator at the thirty-fourth commencement of Bryn Mawr College yesterday at which he discussed the league of nations.

"I am a Republican and I will live and die as one," he said. "but certain issues are above party and personal hostility will never excuse, in the minds of the people, an opposition to the league which has no reference to its merits and demerits."

35 KOREANS SLAIN BY JAPANESE IN CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Reports of Massacres Are Confirmed by British and American Investigators and Admitted by Authorities.

PEOPLE BAYONETED AS HOMES BURNED

Inhabitants Say Torch Was Applied to Several Villages Because Natives Were Christians and Had Churches.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, May 1.—Thirty-five Koreans were shot or killed with swords or bayonets by Japanese soldiers in a Christian church building at Cheam-ni, 40 miles from Seoul, in connection with the Korean independence movement. This has been confirmed by an investigation by British and American consular agents and by missionary leaders in Korea. The facts are admitted by the Japanese authorities at Seoul, including Governor-General Hasegawa. The authorities say that they deplore the outrage, that those guilty of it have been punished, and that orders have been given to prevent a recurrence. Investigators also have found that Soochung, another village near Cheam-ni, was burned by the Japanese and that several Koreans there were wounded in an attack by Japanese soldiers who shot them or used their swords and bayonets on them as they fled from their burning homes after the troops had set fire to the buildings. Reports have been received of the burning of Christian churches in three other villages and Koreans told the Associated Press correspondent at Seoul that they could show him nine villages which had been burned by the Japanese.

Details of Massacre at Cheam-ni. Details of the massacre at Cheam-ni were obtained by the Associated Press correspondent who visited that place in company with Raymond S. Curtice, the American vice-consul at Seoul, and Mr. Underwood, an American missionary. Describing his visit to Cheam-ni, the Seoul correspondent writes that when they asked residents of nearby villages why that hamlet had been burned they were told that it was because there was a Christian church and many native Christians in the village.

"When we got to the place, which had been a village of about 40 houses, we found only four or five standing, all the rest were smoking ruins," he continued. "We found a body frightfully burned and twisted, and another just outside the church. Several groups of people were huddled under little straw shelters, with a few of their pitiful belongings about them. They were mostly women, some old, others young mothers with babies, but all sunk in the dull apathy of abject misery and despair. Mr. Underwood, an American missionary who talked to them in their own language, brought the story of what had happened.

"The day before we arrived soldiers came to the village and ordered all the male Christians together at the church. When about 30 were in the church, the soldiers opened fire on them with rifles and then entered the church and finished them off with swords and bayonets. After this they set fire to the church and to the houses."

One Korean told the correspondent he was alive because he was not a Christian and was not in the church.

"We photographed freely without interference," the correspondent said later, "but when we started to talk to the natives, a policeman would saunter up and the Korean would 'freeze up.' They were in fear of what might happen later if they were seen talking to us."

Church and 30 Houses Burned. The party headed by the British Consul then visited Soochung and found the village had been burned. The Koreans told the visitors that they were awakened in the night by finding their houses on fire. When they ran out they were wounded, and we saw one man whose arm had been laid open with a sword. A church and 30 houses had been burned here.

The Rev. Stacy L. Roberts, an American Presbyterian minister stationed at Pyeung Yang, has issued a statement asserting that more than 100 Koreans were shot or beaten to death in Tyung-Ju, and that a church there was burned by Japanese. In another village eight miles away another Christian church and an academy for boys were burned by Japanese soldiers after benches, stoves and mats were carried away and put to use in the Government school at Tyung-Ju.

Clip Your Coupon Get a 25c Can of Chi-Namel Free!

For centuries the Chinese have used a Waterproof Self-Leveling Oil which gives their finishes greater brilliance and durability.

Fifteen years ago we learned their secret and produced Chi-Namel.

This remarkable Chinese Oil gives Chi-Namel its diamond-like brightness and durability and makes it easiest for amateurs to apply.

Space forbids technical details which, in print, might be considered exaggerations to those unacquainted with the marvelous beauty of Chi-Namel.

So we earnestly request that you Try Chi-Namel and judge for yourself. If you will invest only 15c for a nice new brush to apply it any Chi-Namel dealer will give you a 25c can free—contains enough varnish to cover 25 square feet of surface.

While in the Chi-Namel store, please investigate the Chi-Namel Graining Process for applying hardwood effects over old, dirty softwood floors, doors, woodwork, furniture, etc.

Try graining yourself—you can learn in 5 minutes.

There's a Chi-Namel Quality Finish for everything in the home, for old or new, hard or soft woodwork, floors, furniture, radiators, screens, picture frames, bric-a-brac, etc.

BUT $4 CONTRIBUTED TO MILK FUND IN TWO DAYS

Series of Entertainments Scheduled to Follow Closing of Schools.

PURE MILK AND INFANT MORTALITY

MILK is the natural food of the infant and the child. It is therefore most important that milk be fresh, clean and wholesome. For unclean milk disturbs digestion and menaces health, and milk that is unclean may also be disease laden.

It should also contain nutritious qualities, that is, contain sufficient butter fat, for upon this constituent depends its up-building of the child. It is one of the most susceptible of foods, spoiling quickly if not kept at a low temperature, or if exposed to noxious gases or odors. To keep milk properly it must be continually fed from the milking of the cow to the time it is consumed, therefore ice is a necessary adjunct in its use in the summer months.

St. Louis' baby mortality, always among the lowest, in 1917 was the lowest in the United States, is indicative of the good work being done along pure milk lines.

G. A. JORDAN,
Assistant Health Commissioner.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Previously acknowledged, $419 10
A. J. Schrick, 1231 Clara avenue 2 00
Gertrude Keane, 3954 Russell avenue 2 00
Total $423 10

Only $4 has been received by the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund during the last two days. Two dollars were sent in by A. J. Schrick of 1231 Clara avenue, and Miss Gertrude Keane, 3954 Russell avenue, also gave $2 to aid the poor babies.

Promises are being received, however, of entertainments to be given after the close of school for the benefit of the fund. Several affairs have been tentatively arranged, and children are beginning to get the show tickets and the printed signs for lemonade and ice cream stands, which are furnished free on application.

As announced at the opening of the Victory year campaign, the merchants have been made to print the pictures of Milk and Ice Fund workers this year. Buttons and membership cards to certify that the holders have done work for the fund will be awarded when contributions are made.

INVESTIGATORS ARE NAMED

Ten Republicans and Five Democrats on Committee.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 6.—Fifteen members of the House, 10 Republicans and five Democrats, have been appointed by Speaker Gillett to conduct five investigations of war-time expenditures of the War Department. Representative Graham, Republican of Illinois, was selected as chairman of the general committee, and the division of subcommittees, one for each investigation, will give the Republicans two members to one for the Democrats. The investigations will cover expenditures for aircraft, ordnance, camps and cantonments, quartermaster supplies and purchases abroad.

The committee personnel announced by the Speaker follows: Representatives Tamm, Illinois; Hamilton, Michigan; McKendree, Illinois; Johnson, South Dakota; Reavis, Nebraska; Magee, New York; McCulloch, Ohio; Bland, Indiana; Jeffries, Nebraska; and MacGregor, New York. Representatives Flood, Virginia; Garrett, Tennessee; Doremus, Michigan; Donovan, New York; and Lea, California, Democrats.

PRESCRIPTIONS SEIZED AS EVIDENCE OF TRADE IN DRUGS

Revenue Officers Raid Office of Doctor They Say Makes Business of Prescribing Narcotics.

United States revenue officers last night raided the office of Dr. T. E. Manning, 2867 Delmar boulevard, and confiscated prescriptions and records to show that he makes a business of writing morphine and cocaine prescriptions. They reported that the records showed he wrote prescriptions of this character for 71 persons yesterday, and that he kept a filing cabinet, which were prescriptions written in advance for certain of his regular patients. They also found copies of a printed affidavit which he requires each patient to sign, setting forth that "medicine" was prescribed in good faith and to be taken according to the doctor's instructions. Dr. Manning was not arrested, but the revenue agents said they would ask for a warrant for his arrest. He is now under indictment on a charge of illegally dispensing narcotic drugs. This case has been pending about two years.

"Kidnaped" Girl Weds "Abductor." The suspicion of her parents that Rose Mazucco, 23 years old, 1314 North Eighth street, who "disappeared" from home yesterday, was "kidnaped" by her suitor, following an Italian custom, was borne out last night when she was found at the home of Samuel Charco, 26 years old, 1238 North Eighth street. She and Charco displayed a certificate showing that they had been married by a Justice of the Peace.

Will a Slaughter of Jews Be Next European Horror?

While the sporadic persecutions and massacres of Jews in Russia, Poland, Roumania and the Ukraine, already reported, are disturbing in themselves, they are but scattered sparks compared to the conflagration some observers foresee. Thus William G. Shepherd, in a Paris dispatch to the New York Evening Post says that not only leading Jews in France but even notable Russian authorities, including Kerensky, "admit the possibility that the next Russian horror will consist of attacks on Jews." In the course of a dispatch from Paris a correspondent to the New York Day, a Jewish paper, says regarding the massacres in the Ukraine that "the purpose is apparently to exterminate the entire Jewish population."

Regarding the reported persecution of Jews in Poland, Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes, of New York, declares that that country "is now at the bar of the world's judgment, for the world has to choose between Turkish atrocities in Armenia, German atrocities in Belgium, and Polish atrocities in Poland."

Poles in New York, and the new Polish Premier Paderewski, deny that pogroms have occurred in Poland, and characterize these charges as anti-Polish and pro-German propaganda. To substantiate these denials the Polish Information Bureau cites Dr. Vernon Kellogg, recently returned to New York from Poland, who in an interview published in the New York Times stated that while "there were constant rumors of difficulties of one kind and another between the Jews and the Poles," he did not find evidence of any widespread massacres.

MEN OF 124TH F. A. TO ARRIVE HOME SUNDAY

East St. Louis Soldiers Will Reach City Between 9 and 11 A. M.; Parade in Afternoon.

"Tell Leon Smith (marriage license clerk) to have plenty of ink ready," was the message to East St. Louis, shouted to an East St. Louisian who was watching the 124th Field Artillery parade in Chicago yesterday by one of the East St. Louis members of the regiment.

The regiment will be mustered out of service between 9 and 11 o'clock Saturday night, at Camp Grant, and the East St. Louis members of the regiment, together with the regimental band, will arrive in East St. Louis Sunday morning between 9 and 11 o'clock. They will parade during the afternoon, after which there will be a grand reunion picnic at Jones Park, which, it is expected, will be participated in by almost every person in the city.

Mass Meeting Tonight.
A mass meeting of men formerly in the service—army, navy and marines—will meet tonight in the City Hall to arrange for participating in the parade. While the parade is in honor of every resident of the city who was in service.

The parade will be in three sections with formation as follows: Grand Marshal and aides; Guard of Honor, which will consist of G. A. R. veterans in carriages; Spanish-American war veterans; the "Supreme Sacrifice" (gold star) regimental band.

The first division will consist of the band and members of the 124th Field Artillery; the second division will be all other residents of the city who were in the army, navy, marines or other branches of the service, with the exception of negroes, who will constitute the third division.

Lieut. McMillan in Command.
Lieut. Joseph McMillan will be in command of the service men, other than the 124th and negroes. The negro division will be in command of Corp. William G. Miller. Lieutenant-Colonel L. G. Harney, will be Grand Marshal of the negro division, and elaborate arrangements have been made for the celebration by members and relatives of the negro residents who served during the war. They will have a picnic, baseball game and other events at Nineteenth and Bond avenues.

The music for the second division, referred to as World War Veterans, will be furnished by the U. S. Army band from Jefferson Barracks, and the East St. Louis Federation band. A band composed of residents of Belleville will aid the regimental band of the 124th.

Armour's girls' drum and bugle corps will be at the reviewing stand, Ninth and State streets, and the Shriners' drum corps will be on the speakers' stand at Jones Park.

The marchers are to be showered with flowers as they pass the reviewing stand and also at Jones Park.

Congressman Rodenberg and Gov. Lowden will address the veterans, both white and negro, and Col. Charles Young, U. S. A., highest ranking negro officer in the United States, will address the negro veterans.

LIFE TERM FOR WIFE MURDERER

Pullman Porter Pleaded Mental Derangement Due to Family Troubles.
Ed Carter, a Pullman porter, of 2727 Walnut street, a negro, was sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary for life in Judge Taylor's Court today for the murder of his wife, Elsie, Sept. 25, 1918, in a saloon on Market street.

Carter and his wife had been separated and she was living with her brother over the saloon. Carter was standing in the saloon when she came down to use a telephone, and shot and killed her. His defense was that he had become mentally deranged because of his family troubles.

Kinsella, 23 years old, of 3337 Blair avenue, tried to kill herself in the kitchen of her home at 7 p. m. yesterday by drinking poison. She was taken to the city hospital in a critical condition.

Mrs. Emma Kinsella, the girl's mother, told police the girl had kept company with a youth for two years, until recently, when he married another. A bottle that had contained the poison and a glass from which the girl drank the poison were found on the kitchen floor by her side. The label had been scratched from the bottle.

Bad Complexions
Peeled Off at Home

The girl with the poor complexion complains, "I have to touch up my cheeks. I am sallow and a sight, and only my makeup saves me."
Now, as a matter of fact, more women spoil their good looks than improve them with cosmetics. The practice creates a need for more and more cosmetics. It is a vicious circle. The girl who is actually improved—like the girl in the picture—has a clear, smooth, youthful, healthy skin. A new complexion is produced. A clear, smooth, youthful, healthy skin. A new complexion is produced. A clear, smooth, youthful, healthy skin. A new complexion is produced.

"ITALY HAS HAD TOO MANY POETS," SAYS PREMIER ORLANDO

People's Sentiment Often Outweighs Economic Interests, Declares

Peace Delegate.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, June 6.—"We suffer greatly," said Premier Orlando to the correspondent, "from the fact that the Italian people are not understood abroad."

"We once had a statesman named Machiavelli, and ever since his time the outside world thinks that ulterior, indirect motives underlie every proposition made by Italy."

"As a matter of fact, the Italian people are profoundly sentimental. They are led by their patriotic sentiment at the expense of their most pressing needs. Our people are poor. Other richer people look after their pocketbooks. Yet the economic interests of our people do not weigh in the balance in popular decisions."

Yes, Italy has had too many poets," (Copyright, 1919, by the Chicago Daily News.)

FATHER AND SON WED TOGETHER

Parent, Engaged for Months, Awaited Boy's Return From Navy

John J. Bilgenstorfer, 51 years old, a widower, and his son, Fremont, 23, were principals in a double wedding at the office of Justice of the Peace McChesney in the Pontiac Building yesterday afternoon.

Bilgenstorfer was wedded to Mrs. Virginia J. Wells, a widow, 37 years old, of 1801 Preston place, at whose home he boarded. Fremont Bilgenstorfer, who recently returned from the navy, was married to Miss Julia Wittman, 18 years old, who resides in St. Louis County. Another brother, Otto Bilgenstorfer, still in the naval service.

The elder Bilgenstorfer declared he and his bride had been engaged for several months but had delayed their marriage until the return of Fremont from the service.

Benton Woman Heads Illinois Clubs.

PEORIA, Ill., June 6.—Mrs. William S. Hart of Benton yesterday defeated Mrs. Frank A. Funk of Bloomington, in the race for the presidency of the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Conditions at Monsanto Works.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Monday, June 2, an article appeared in the St. Louis Republic entitled "The New Era and Mr. Quincy." It stated that "the war made Mr. Quincy rich, and that was all," and intimated that Mr. Quincy did not treat his employees fairly. I am a discharged sailor and I found no job awaiting me upon my return, but it was the chemical works, of which Mr. Quincy is president, that gave me work when I most needed work, and there are many more returned soldiers and sailors who have found work with this firm. During the war every man who enlisted was paid the difference, in his salary, between what he received from the Government and what he formerly earned, for one year, and their jobs awaited them upon their return.

Talk about working conditions: Come down and see our service building, which cannot be excelled. We have showers, a clean dining hall, and we are furnished with soap and towels, and there is hot water to be had at all times. The firm pays the costs of a night school held in our service building for the benefit of the foreign-born, so that they may learn and master the English language. The firm ranks first in safety devices on moving machinery. This chemical works pays the highest wages in St. Louis for unskilled labor.

Talk about good fellowship. Come down and hear us sing at Saturday noon. We get a half-hour with pay. We have a song leader and Mr. Ten Brook of the F. M. C. A. makes speeches on patriotism, which sure touches the spot. I write this, for we are contented, but I was the only one who has the nerve to write to the only newspaper of which St. Louis can boast.

Politics in Care of the Sick.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The present situation at State Hospital No. 2 at Nevada furnishes an illuminating instance of politics in the care and treatment of the sick.

Dr. Bradley, who has had six years' experience in hospital management, is a quack, that fact should long since have been discovered and the doctor dismissed.

When charges of incompetency against a superintendent are made the public should know why, and insist that those who make them shall prove them, or explain their motive.

The most helpless of all wards of the State are the insane, and that their particular welfare is the motive for all the pretentious activity now raging in the affairs of Hospital No. 2 is difficult to believe.

The State hospitals should be under the care and control of well-trained staffs, which during good behavior should remain undisturbed by political considerations.

Until we establish a merit system in State hospital service we shall have regular recurrences of the present situation at Nevada.

The People Must Have Recreation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Your editorial commending Mayor Kiel's determination not to allow the children's playgrounds, swimming pools and other recreation places to be closed, and the communication from "Citizen" on the same subject were admirable. Citizens should have given his name. Those who think as he does should know each other and get together for the general good.

When closing of the public recreation facilities promised the most shameful and disgraceful conditions in St. Louis this summer, the suffering, the injury to health and morale of the thousands of children, women and men who need these places so much would have been terrible. One who has not been around them and noted the happiness, comfort and health they created cannot appreciate their value to the community.

The one best advertisement St. Louis has had since the World's Fair was given it by the swimming pools. Cool, bright, clean, and beautiful, they were the thing in the city, and they were everywhere. They were known everywhere as the best in the country, and gave St. Louis a standing of material value to its sociology.

The Chamber of Commerce proposes to spend much money securing concessions for the advertising. That is well in its way, but is of no more value to us from the dollar point than to work up and maintain a reputation for liberality and originality in the development of recreation for the masses. It's the human that counts nowadays.

W. S. STUYVESANT.

WHOSE SCANDAL?

The charge made by Senators Lodge and Borah, that copies of the German peace treaty are in the hands of New York men, with the broad intimation that these men, representing great financial interests, were specially favored by the administration or the peace delegation, if not true, is, as Senator Hitchcock said, "monstrous." It is a scandalous charge, reflecting on the President or his trusted official advisers.

On the other hand, if it is true, the scandal lies at the door of the peace delegation or the State Department.

The whole scandal grows out of the effort of opposition Senators to have a copy of the treaty submitted to the Senate, which has been withheld by the State Department, on the ground that it is incomplete and not yet ready for submission.

The pith of the scandalous charge is that while denying the Senate a draft of the treaty, a copy has been permitted to slip out for the benefit of financial interests.

Manifestly, the President is clearly within his right and the proprieties in withholding the treaty from the Senate until it is complete and he is ready to submit it. On the other hand, it is violently improper to permit copies to get in the hands of other persons, especially persons who might profit by a knowledge of its contents.

Neither Senator Lodge nor Senator Borah will tell the source of their information. This attitude is not in their favor, because a scandalous charge of this kind should be accompanied by evidence, or at least a demand for investigation, with an offer to submit facts.

The demand for an investigation comes from Senator Hitchcock, an administration Senator, at the instance, it is understood, of the President. This demand is imperative. The whole truth now must be brought out by a prompt and thorough investigation.

The public is entitled to know whether the President or his advisers have scandalously dealt with special interests or whether Senators Lodge and Borah have scandalously attempted to besmirch the administration for the purpose of discrediting the President, injuring the treaty in the public mind and thus aiding the campaign to defeat the League of Nations.

The entire squabble is proof of the intensity of the personal and political bitterness of the fight against the President.

SPURIOUS ECONOMY.

Comptroller Nolte is not convincing in his objection to Mayor Kiel's tentative suggestion that the city borrow money to maintain adequately the park and recreational facilities. "I cannot, as a public official, sanction the spending of money which the city hasn't got," the Comptroller is quoted as saying. But, as a matter of fact, the Comptroller does sanction the "spending of money which the city hasn't got," and so does every other official of this and every other city. All cities conduct enterprises on borrowed money. They probably always will. Credit is indispensable in the operation of cities. The Mayor's proposal is not revolutionary. On the contrary, it is entirely orthodox. It merely means utilizing the city's credit.

And the Comptroller is wrong in another respect. His anxiety as to the cost of maintaining those healthful, wholesome, necessary facilities is misplaced. He might far better worry about the cost of suspending those recreational utilities. What that cost would be nobody knows. But it is cost which cannot be contemplated calmly. It is a shrinkage in the city's physical and spiritual values. It is an impairment of character.

The saving of money by curtailing the functions of the Park Department is spurious economy. The public opinion of the city is opposed to any such policy. Our officials, all of them, should accept this public opinion as a mandate to them to find the means for maintaining the city's health-building, character-building agencies at full capacity.

Frank Vanderlip has resigned the presidency of the National City Bank of New York and says he is going to "do some useful work." Couldn't he have gone out without slamming the door?

WOMEN VOTERS AND THE 1920 ELECTION.

The remarkable five-months period which, beginning with the assembling of the 1919 Legislature, saw 4,500,000 women newly enfranchised by state action in America, ends with the passage in Congress of the Anthony resolution, submitted to stand as the nineteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution.

Though foreshadowed by a rapidly diminishing opposition in that body, the approval by the Senate is one of the memorable events in the entire suffrage movement. The upper house of the American Congress had become the final stronghold of the view that political rights are an exclusively masculine prerogative. The appearance over its chamber of the white flag indicating its reluctant surrender under the coercion of public opinion may fittingly be celebrated by the women crusaders and all who have supported the justice of their demand for a part in directing the affairs of their country.

With votes for all our women made certain within a few months at the most, the results of the final period of obstruction at Washington are now to be viewed with regret and indignation. On Feb. 10 last one Senate vote served to defeat submission. A grave responsibility attaches to the man who cast that one vote. The Legislatures of a large number of the states were then in session. Submission would have been followed speedily by ratification in sufficient states to give all women in the country, without discrimination, a vote in the 1920 election.

There is, of course, a hope now for universal equal suffrage by that date, but is it probable?

The Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts and Wisconsin Legislatures still linger in regular session. Michigan's Assembly is meeting in an adjourned session to consider special legislation and Georgia's will assemble in a few days. In two or three states special sessions have already been called. Ratification in six or eight states is possible this year and if Massachusetts fails to act in 1919 another opportunity to ratify will be presented at its session early in 1920.

In addition to that of Massachusetts, 10 other Legislatures will meet in regular session in 1920, making 16 or 18 in all before which the women will have a chance to present their case in the next 12 months. Assuming that all act favorably—in four or five success seems doubtful—18 or 20 special sessions will have to be called to obtain ratification by 36 states before November, 1920.

Women are now authorized to express their choice for the next President in 26 states, including Iowa, the last State to make the concession by State action alone. In two others they may help to elect delegates to the national conventions. Even if ratification is unfortunately delayed, no less than 15,500,000 women will vote in the first presidential election held after the close of the war.

THE VERY MUCH ALIVE LEAGUE.

From the Boston Post.

Some weeks ago Mr. Frank H. Simonds, the expert writer on the League, sent over to the New York Tribune a dispatch beginning: "The League of nations is dead." It was the most foolish thing he had ever said and it lowered him in popular opinion tremendously. Not only here, but in Paris and, indeed, all over the world. How such a man could have made such a statement, certain to make him ridiculous if he were not sure of his assertion, it is hard to explain. Already developments have shown how utterly and absurdly wrong he was.

For the League of nations is very much alive, though a lot of Republican and one or two Democratic Senators pretend to believe, and would like to feel, that it is dead. It is Frank Simonds. But events move on and in their sometimes quiet way prove that the covenant is a settled thing, to be ratified by the Governments of all the signatories. Let us look at a few.

In the first place, the city and the exact site of the home of the league have been chosen, and all Geneva is perfectly and happily convinced that the great parliament of man is to be maintained in Switzerland. Preparations for its reception are going forward just as if Senator Borah did not exist. Of course this is very uncomplimentary to the roaring foe of the league, but facts are facts, and we have to accept them as they come along.

Then again—and this is the most unkind cut of all to the recalcitrants—Washington has actually been designated as the great covenant some $50,000,000 can very safely be pared off from the naval appropriation bill. This may seem unkind, for it puts the Republican Senators in the unpleasant dilemma of voting to add $50,000,000 to the people's tax bills if they vote against the ratification of the peace treaty. But it is justified, for Mr. Daniels sees perfectly well that with the league in existence much smaller navies can be maintained all around. It is easy to observe that he, too, thinks the league is an assured thing.

The whole world of sane and sober opinion is doing what Wall Street calls "discounting" the coming of the league. It is only another way of saying that "coming events cast their shadows before." And such feelings are rarely in error. They are not in error now. Instead of being dead, the League of nations is only just beginning to live.

THE MAYOR AND CONVENTIONS.

As we come to be more and more of a convention city, thanks to organization and location, we find a curious situation to have arisen with respect to the Mayor. The Mayor is bound by a custom which perhaps no one has ever examined or weighed to appear before each of these conventions and make an address of greeting. In the past year he says he has made something like 600 of these addresses. They have sometimes covered a range as great as that spanning the divergent thought of a Presbyterian assembly and a convention of beer bottlers. (The Mayor's own example of what it is like.) What is to be the end of it? As railroad rates go up conventions are forced to the centers of population. Ours is the principal center. With any encouragement at all, conventions will fairly take the town over. Is the Mayor going to greet all those people? Is he going to try to stand in the atmosphere of each one of those conventions? Let us not ask him to do that. Pericles could have done it, and no other man has ever understood his city and its obligations as Pericles did. Why, then, starting from greater unpreparedness for such a task, should any of us be forced to fall the more short than even that great metropolitan would have fallen? Our sympathies are with both the Mayor and the conventions. We thus speak neutrally, and without fear of offense. If we advertised ourselves as the only big city in the country where a convention may assemble without being addressed by a Mayor who probably never heard of the organization before in his life, we would not only be doing the Mayor a kindness but would make ours much the greatest convention city in history. Indisposed as conventions would be to believe it, they would still come here to see if it were true. Let us do that.

YESTERDAY.

YESTERDAY a young man whom I have known for years came in and stood before me. How was he? He was well. How was he? He was well. That was nice, wasn't it? Not a thing on earth the matter with either of us? He just as well and strong as when I had last seen him several years ago. And I perhaps even more robust than when he saw me last? Well, worth his coming in for, wouldn't you say? Surely.

Still, I knew well enough that was not what he had come in for. Moreover, he knew I knew it. The matter couldn't rest there. It was his move. He was in the automobile business. He had seen me pass their place out on Locust street on the preceding afternoon.

I was walking. Putting two and two together through his plate glass front, he made it out that I wanted an automobile! Rather good, I thought. A good business, too. Did I want an automobile? He had the So-and-so and the Thus-and-Thus—both umpty-ump. They were such-and-such, ad lib and so on ad infin.

But, said I, are not automobiles snatched up faster than they can be made? He said, yes, they were such-and-such, ad lib and so on ad infin.

Is there not a long waiting list at every sales agency? Is not the country so full of money it fairly rattles when the earth revolves? And has each one of the new war millionaires not bought a collection of cars in all makes, models and colors?

Had he, having no more than seen me pass, come down on so faint a clew as that?

It was true, he said, that the business was booming.

Even the Standard Oil Company keeps right on after business!

So that was it. Well, I was sorry. It had been thoughtless of me. I might have known. I would not do it again.

I would walk down Olive street, or down Washington avenue.

Anywhere to keep from rousing a false hope in men's breasts—

And making them hate me for having tricked them.

Which it seems I unwittingly did in this instance.

Though not dreaming to have done so. Nor caring so to have done.

I felt like Mr. Wilson. Who merely walked down that way in the world where so many need help. And disappointed so many—

Though he did say a good deal. I think.

And going down Locust street I hadn't said beans!

Henry Ford is attacking along the whole Chicago Tribune front.

How Soldier-Prisoners Live in "Solitary," as Learned by Night in "Hole"

Men at Fort Leavenworth Disciplinary Barracks Still Experience All Features of Prison, Writes Visitor to Cells.

(Reprinted in Part From The Survey.) In the sub-basement of the United States Disciplinary Barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., is "the hole." It is the prison for the 18 solitary cells four feet wide, nine feet long and between 11 and 12 feet high, in which military prisoners are sealed for periods that, in some instances, have lasted eight and 10 years. Here, behind wooden doors, kept shut day and night, soldier-prisoners stay alone with their thoughts. They may neither smoke, nor read, nor write. Indeed, the air which filters in from a small vent at the top is too foul to permit of the former, and the light which penetrates from two screens, one at the bottom and the other at the top of the cell door, is too dim to permit of the latter.

To ascertain the true conditions of the life under which Uncle Sam's soldier-prisoners live and of what they do in prison and how they act and what they think and say, Winthrop D. Lane of the Survey visited among other prisoners the three "disciplinary barracks" conducted by the Government. These are at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.; Governor's Island, New York; and Alcatraz Island, San Francisco Bay. At Fort Leavenworth he mingled with the prisoners for days. He was given a pass that permitted him to roam about the prison at will. He played checkers and chatted with the prisoners and drew from them their hopes and fears. His visit was made with the knowledge and sanction of the War Department and so the records of the prison office were shown to him. He interviewed prison officials, who talked freely to him. And he spent one night in "solitary" in prison garb in order to find out first hand what it was like.

Eight kinds of punishment. Lane paid particular attention to the conditions surrounding solitary confinement and its effect on men. His findings are set forth in a special article entitled "Solitary" in the May 31 issue of The Survey. He found that the placing of prisoners in solitary confinement on a diet of bread and water for 14 consecutive days and nights was a regular and prescribed form of punishment; that for years being regarded as exceptionally severe, at Fort Leavenworth it was sixth in order of severity out of eight permissible punishments specified by the Adjutant General's office. The most severe form of good conduct time being regarded as more severe. At no time, he adds, during his two weeks' visit were there fewer than 19 men in the solitary cells.

Five years ago, according to Lane, the name of military prisons was dropped and "disciplinary barracks" was substituted to emphasize the reformatory character of the institution. Lane found that the barracks were organized for those who, it was thought, could be restored to military service. A department of psychiatry and sociology was established at Leavenworth to make possible more individual treatment. "But," says Lane, "they remained prisoners. Men could still be compelled to stand for nine hours a day with their wrists handcuffed to the doors of their cells, or with a large and they could be placed upon a diet of bread and water for 14 consecutive days. All prisoners except those enrolled in the disciplinary battalions were to be known by number, which they wore conspicuously in figures two and a half inches high on their coats and breeches. A fairly vigorous prison discipline still prevailed.

Harsh Treatment Alleged. "Harsh treatment continued to be the purpose for which men were confined and solitary cells remained recognized and much used forms of punishment. At Fort Leavenworth most of the men who worked outside the walls continued to be accommodated by guards with shotguns. With the exception of manning the hands to the cell doors, all of these conditions exist today. "There are things about it (Leavenworth) that ought to be changed at once. Physical inadequacies exist that are a shame to the United States Government. The machinery of repression is much in evidence, even if the spirit is absent. The bareness of the prisoner's life defies many of the better purposes of the institution. And instances of harsh and even brutal treatment have occurred, though these have been in defiance of rather than in accordance with the administration's policy."

Some of the instances given of harsh treatment follow: It is declared that men after their first period of 14 days and nights in "solitary" on bread and water are subjected to a second period lasting 14 days on regular full diet; that some time third periods of like duration follow the second in which the prisoners are kept on bread and water; and that prisoners in three instances stated they had been kept in solitary eight weeks continuously, and one claimed to have been in 19 weeks.

Lane's Night in Solitary. Perhaps the most interesting portion of the story concerns Lane's one-night stay in solitary. He describes it in part as follows: "It was understood that my confinement was to be in all respects like that of a man sent to solitary for punishment and was to include bread and water for breakfast. After changing my clothes in the armory, I went to the solitary cell, accompanied by Capt. Rousseau, an assistant in the executive office. These are in one of the so-called basements of the main cell building, though not actually underground. My worst fear as we crossed the prison yard was that I should pass an officer and forget to cross my arms in front of me, in the manner required of prisoners. As I entered the cell chosen for me the sentry in charge, who supposed me to be a recalcitrant prisoner, searched me. He then searched out the board and blankets that I was to sleep on and the drinking cup that stood on a ledge in the grating at the front of the cell. Capt. Rousseau left word that he would take me out in the morning and he departed.

"My cell was No. 138. The solid wooden door was not immediately closed, though the inner grating door was closed and locked. I placed my board upon the floor and examined my blankets. A friendly officer had advised me, before entering, to look for bedbugs at once. This I tried to do, but the light from the corridor was so dim that obviously the search was doomed to failure. I decided that that battle would have to wait the actual appearance of the enemy.

"The blankets were greasy in feeling, but had no head lice. Two of them were large and thick, the others thin, being little more than strips of blanket material. There was the regulation number—six. Spreading these upon the board for my bed, I took off my shoes, cap and coat, opened my shirt at the front and lay down. My bed did not seem so uncomfortable as I had expected to find.

Counted and Locked Up. Hardly had I lain down when a gong sounded and a guard shouted: "Attention! Stand up for the count!" I then knew that the wooden door had not been closed. They were waiting till the count had been taken. I arose and stood at the front of my cell, just inside the grating, with my arms folded. My friend, Capt. Goodlett, entered the cell and came hurriedly by. He gave me one perfunctory glance, recognized me and passed on.

"Shortly after the count a sentry crept by and closed the wooden door of my cell. I could hear him closing the others also, these having been opened for the count. Ceremonies were over and our night in solitary had begun. It was about 9:15 when I entered the cell. The door was where I went to sleep. I was surprised to find that the physical discomfort of the bed and of the cell did not of itself make the night so dreary as I had found it. Indeed, I have spent worse nights on the ground when camping. The air in the cell remained fairly good throughout the night and I did not find it necessary to kick out my front screen, as some prisoners do.

"At a few minutes before 6 o'clock the gong waked us all up and a sentry shouted down the corridor: 'Breakfast!' The wooden door remained closed. Shortly two negro prisoners appeared with food. One of them stopped in front of my door and placed a tin plate and spoon under the grating on the floor. The negro slapped a spoonful of the messy stuff down on my plate. Presently the other negro came with an armful of bread cut into thick slices. Four of these he placed upon the steel edge of my barred door. I took them off and tasted one of the inner slices. It was not so bad as I had expected. I had previously eaten at the prisoners' mess.

Negroes Give Out Food. "Again one of the negroes came by, this time with a large can of hot liquid. 'Cup,' he said, inserting the spout through my barred door, 'this is your coffee.' He poured the hot liquid he poured into it was evidently coffee. I decided to forego both the coffee and the prunes. Had I been hungry I could doubtless have made a meal. Had I known I must eat this food or nothing, I could undoubtedly have eaten it. The conditions under which it was presented to me were not appetizing to say the least. Perhaps there are men in the disciplinary barracks who can eat such food with something approaching relish. I doubt that there are many who can eat it without preliminary shudders.

"After breakfast the solid wooden door of my cell was closed and the day began. There being nothing else to do, I lay down on the blankets once more. I did not then know that the sun was shining outside. I tried to imagine staying in this cell all day with it for him. I tried to imagine staying there for several days and wondered how soon depression would come. Would I be repentant, would my defiant spirit be tamed and docile, would I yield to suggestion after that? Or would I be bitter and vengeful would I come out with a permanent grudge, would I hate the authority that had thrust me into such a place, and how long? These were the questions that I asked myself. I felt that the experience would leave its mark permanently. I began to wonder to hit somebody—the inventor of solitary confinement or the first man who thought that human nature could be improved by such treatment."

Matrimonial Rules of the Road

WATCH THE ROAD AHEAD

The Price of Happy Marriage Is Eternal Vigilance Over Self—What We Adore at Twenty We May Spell "A Bore" at Thirty-five—The Wife With Her Eye on the Road Ahead Will Learn to Be Her Husband's Good Comrade—It Is a More Permanent Job Than That of Venus.

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall.

THE early bird may be getting the worm and popular approval, as usual, these pleasant June days, but the early marriage gets little or no approval from Mr. and Mrs. Worldly Wiseman.

It is a fact that many early marriages, especially if they are made hastily, impulsively, end in the matrimonial traffic court of divorce. But the marriages of the mature frequently end in the same place. We all, I am sure, number among our acquaintances married couples who won and wedded in the early twenties, perhaps even before that, and are happy in spite of it. How do they do it? Are they simply lucky, or is there method in the madness of their Romeo-and-Juliet romance?

There was a man who, on his wedding night, prayed: "Lord, permit us to grow old together." I think if he had left out one word his prayer would have been even more significant. What every bride and bridegroom, and especially every young bride and bridegroom, should ask of fate is the felicity of growing together. If they can grow together they will be as happy at 41 as at 21, and the younger they marry the more years of joy their lives will contain.

As shrewdly as the motorist, the husband and wife must watch the road ahead, if they wish to avoid collisions, or worse turnings. The most logical objection to the marriage of young persons is that most of life is lived after 35, and what we adore at 20 we may spell "a bore" 15 years later. Yet this need not be so if two in their early twenties will take thought for their tomorrow, if they will develop their mental interests so that these match as perfectly as their dance steps. The price of happy marriage is eternal vigilance over self.

In marriage you ought not merely to be "on your way." You ought to know where you are going—or the chances are that you are headed in the wrong direction. I think the task of the young managing the journey of marriage, of watching the road of the years as it unrolls, the wife is peculiarly competent.

She is naturally more subtle, more critically analytic of married life than is her husband. On a rainy Saturday afternoon, when she cannot go to a matinee, the most prosaic woman, five years married, will wonder if her husband really loves her as much as he did on their honeymoon.

"Is he interested in anybody else?" she will ask herself. To all except a few blessed with the intermittent regularity of the throbs in an aching tooth. "He goes to the club more than he used to do; at least, he says he goes there. He forgot to kiss me good-by one morning last week, and he has been so little to say at dinner. I've heard that no man ever really appreciates a good wife, and I suppose Harry is no exception. His stenographer probably knows more about his affairs than I do—and I don't like her looks at all."

If the fit of introspection ends there it is exactly as if a motorist should say, "Apparently there is a washout on the road ahead, but it is nothing in the world to me. I shall not try to steer around it. If the car goes to smash, why, that's the car's fault—it should have been built more strongly. And if I go to smash, still I shall have the satisfaction of feeling that only the car and the washout are to blame."

The wife who keeps a really intelligent eye on the road ahead asks herself frequently, not, "Is he as much in love with me?" but "Am I as lovable?" Is my mind responsive to his? Can I say something besides, "Yes, dear," when he talks to me about his work? Do I know something of the political movement in which he is interested? Perhaps he isn't a highbrow, but at least he reads the newspapers. Do I read anything except the female magazines?

It is not the easiest thing, but it is the necessary thing, if the road of married life is to remain both safe and interesting. Maybe the Greeks were cruel only to be kind, when they demanded merely the domestic virtues of their wives and found intelligence and companionship among other women. With the official heteres and the official harem thrown into the discard—probably because of the h. c. of l.—maybe the modern man is unreasonable in expecting his wife to be the perfect home maker, mother, Venus and chum. Yet, if she cannot shine in all four roles, the wise wife, with her eye on the road ahead, will choose at least to be her husband's good comrade. It is a job more permanent than that of Venus, more interesting than that of the harem, more to the point of the mental adventures this resolution will thrust upon her. Nothing in the world was ever so silly but some man made it his hobby.

I know a man who takes a keen intellectual interest in boxes of the past and present. Now, only one fast fighter ever really interested an intelligent woman. His name is Cashel Byron, and his appeal lies in the fact that Bernard Shaw wrote a book about him. Yet the wife of my friend the fight fan valiantly struggles with the hair of an honest woman, seemed to be lingering far in the background of the Alpine bosom which took precedence of the rest of her everywhere; but when she was all in the room it was to be seen that her breathing was the result of hospitable haste to greet the visitor, and her head, not so dry as Neptune's Fountain, suggested that she had paused for only the briefest ablution. George accepted this cold, damp lump mechanically.

Another wife of my acquaintance is married to a man who has been bitten by that bug far deadlier than the tsetse fly or the Jersey mosquito—the uplift bug. He makes speeches at forums, traveling hither and yon in torrid August and on Southern railroads. He knows little groups of serious thinkers, whom he takes Very Seriously. He says the theory of Bolshevism is beautiful, and that its practice has been lied about in the capitalist press. When he is not in Lincolnsteffensing, he is a witty, well-read, charming and useful citizen. Meanwhile, his wife Sunday-tears his boudoir Bolshevik, serves on his pet authors and dissembles her love by throwing him down the stairs of his theories only when "he needs it dreadfully," as she says.

If a woman in love with her husband can interest herself in prize fighting or in uplift, she can teach herself to sympathize with his passion for the movies. Americana, the future of flying, the Democratic Party, Zuluana, the development of foreign trade markets, the poetry of Ezra Pound, perpetual motion, the philosopher's stone, the single tax. Contrariwise, it will not hurt him to see with her eyes the beauty of flowers, of subtly harmonized colorings, of suitability and cleanliness and gracious gesture.

Perhaps at 20 it is enough to love the way his hair grows, the dimple just below her eye when she smiles. At 40, married happiness is more likely to be conditioned by what he cannot get through a narrow doorway; so, my dear, we will make it small even if it does rub our sides a bit.

"Just as you say, my dear," said her husband, "but of course we must not grow fat or we cannot get out or in ourselves."

"Oh, don't you see how easy that will be?" said Mrs. Squirrel. "If we eat enough to grow fat in the house we can easily wait until we grow thin enough to get out, and when we are out there will be no danger because we will always bring home our food and eat it in the house."

"Oh, yes, I see," said Mr. Squirrel. But all the same he did not see the whole of his clever wife's scheme. She intended that, her husband should not grow careless in providing food for the family by eating all his meals outside and if he did she would discover it at once because he would be too big to get through the doorway of their home.

When Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel went to housekeeping in the big tree in the middle of the woods they took great care to have the doorway to their new home just large enough for them to squeeze through.

Tim Squirrel soon discovered the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel. "Ah," he said, "I'll wait until they have their pantry filled and then I will pay them a visit."

There was not a family in the woods who had a bigger supply of nuts on hand than the Squirrels. Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel, and Mr. Squirrel was thinking that soon he would have a feast even if he had to stay in the house for a week. Mrs. Squirrel had kept him so thin on account of the small doorway to their home that he was sure his ribs would soon poke through his fur.

ONE day Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel went for a run in the woods and Tim, who had been watching for days to catch them both out, ran to the door as soon as they were out of sight.

But Tim was too fat; he could not get in. "I'll soon fix that," he said. "I'll cut away the bark and make it big enough for a real Squirrel to get through."

Tim cut and chiseled and the time flew as well as the chips and by and by back came Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel. Mrs. Squirrel's bright eyes saw Tim first and she quickly pulled her husband around to the back door of the house.

"Are you going to let him get all our winter's supply?" asked Mr. Squirrel, very much surprised that his wife seemed to take it so calmly.

"Keep quiet," was all his wife replied, but she was opening the back door as she spoke and pretty soon she beckoned to her husband.

"Come," she said "we will carry out the nuts and by the time he gets the doorway large enough to get through he will find the pantry empty."

All day Tim cut and chiseled and all day Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel carried all their food to another tree.

When Tim finally poked in his head Mr. and Mrs. Squirrel gave him a good sharp dig with a thorn, then Mrs. Squirrel, who did not feel that

How Tim Was Fooled.

TIM was a little gray squirrel who lived in the woods in a tree, but this tree was on the outer edge of the woods, for I want to tell you the Squirrel family did not care at all for Tim Squirrel's company.

And the reason was this: Tim stole every nut he ate in the winter from the house of the Squirrels. He would eat enough to grow fat in the house we can easily wait until we grow thin enough to get out, and when we are out there will be no danger because we will always bring home our food and eat it in the house.

"Oh, yes, I see," said Mr. Squirrel. But all the same he did not see the whole of his clever wife's scheme. THE MAGNIFICENT AMBERSONS

An Epic of the Rise of an American City.

By BOOTH TARKINGTON.

CHAPTER XXII.

GEORGE took off his dressing gown and put on a collar and tie, his fingers shaking so that the tie was not his usual success; then he picked up his coat and waistcoat, and left the room while still in process of donning them, fastening the buttons as he ran down the front stairs to the door. It was not until he reached the middle of the street that he realized that he had forgotten his hat; and he paused for an irresolute moment, during which his eyes wandered, for no reason, to the Fountain of Neptune.

He decided that he needed no hat for the sort of call he intended to make, and went forward hurriedly. Mrs. Johnson was at home, the Irish girl who came to the door informed him, and he was left to wait the lady, in a room like an elegant well—the Johnsons' "reception room"—flooded with light from the windows, walls, blue, calicoined; ceiling, 12 feet from the floor; inside shutters and gray lace curtains; five gilt chairs, a broad sofa, and, in the center, a round table, supporting two tall alabaster vases, a palm, with two leaves, dying in a corner.

Mrs. Johnson came in, breathing noticeably; and her round head, smoothly but economically decorated with the hair of an honest woman, seemed to be lingering far in the background of the Alpine bosom which took precedence of the rest of her everywhere; but when she was all in the room it was to be seen that her breathing was the result of hospitable haste to greet the visitor, and her head, not so dry as Neptune's Fountain, suggested that she had paused for only the briefest ablution. George accepted this cold, damp lump mechanically.

"Mr. Amberson—I mean Mr. Minafer," she exclaimed, "I'm really delighted. I understood you asked for me. Mr. Johnson's out of the city, but Charlie's downtown and I'm looking for him at any minute, now, and he'll be so pleased that you—" "I didn't want to see Charlie," George said. "I want—" "Do sit down," the hospitable lady urged him, seating herself upon the sofa. "I thank you."

"No, I don't say, I wish—" "Surely you're not going to run away again, when you've just come. Do sit down, Mr. Minafer. I hope you're all well at your house and at the dear old Major's, too. He's looking—" "Mrs. Johnson," George said, in a strained loud voice which arrested her attention immediately, so that she was abruptly silent, leaving her surprised mouth open. She had already been concealing some astonishment at this unexampled visit, however, and the condition of George's ordinarily smooth hair (for he had opened his eyes, she had already had not alleviated her perplexity. "Mrs. Johnson," he said, "I have come to ask you a few questions which I would like you to answer, if you please."

She became grave at once. "Certainly, Mr. Minafer. Anything I can—" He interrupted sternly, yet his voice shook in spite of its sternness. "You were talking with my Aunt Fanny about my mother this afternoon."

At this Mrs. Johnson uttered an involuntary gasp, but she recovered herself. "Then I'm sure—" "I am perfectly willing to tell you anything you wish if you will remember to ask it quietly. I'll also take the liberty of reminding you that I had a perfect right to discuss the subject with your aunt. Other people may be less considerate in not confining their discussion of it, as I have, to charitable views expressed of the life and member of the family. Other people!"

"Other people!" the unhappy George repeated viciously. "That's what I want to know about—these other people!" "I beg pardon."

"I want to ask you about them. You say you know of other people who talk about this."

"Dear, dear!" she protested. "How should I know that every sanitary kitchen should have one there."

our conversation was a very pleasant one, if we were talking of your mother, because—" Again he interrupted. "My aunt has told me what the conversation virtually was, and I don't mean to waste any time. Mrs. Johnson. You were talking about a—" George's shoulders suddenly heaved uncontrollably; but he went fiercely on: "You were discussing a scandal that involved my mother's name."

"Isn't that the truth?" "I don't feel called upon to answer, Mr. Minafer," she said with visible agitation. "I do not consider that you have any right—" "My aunt told me you repeated this scandal to her."

"I don't think your aunt can have said that," Mrs. Johnson returned coolly. "I did not repeat a scandal of any kind to your aunt and I only think you are mistaken in saying she told you I did. We may have discussed some matters that have been a topic of comment about town—" "Yes!" George cried. "I think you may have! That's what I'm here about, and what I intend to—" "Don't tell me what you intend, please," Mrs. Johnson interrupted crisply. "And I should prefer that you would not make your voice quite so loud in this house, which I happen to own. Your aunt may have told you—though I think it would have been very unwise in her if she did, and not very considerate of me—she may have told you that we discussed some such topic as I have mentioned, and possibly that would have been true. If I talked it over with her, you may be sure I spoke in the most charitable spirit, and without sharing in other people's disposition to put an evil interpretation on what may be nothing more than unfortunate appearances and—" "My God!" said George. "I can't stand this!" "You have the option of dropping the subject," Mrs. Johnson suggested tartly, and she added: "Or of leaving the house."

"I'll do that soon enough, but first I mean to know—" "I am perfectly willing to tell you anything you wish if you will remember to ask it quietly. Willard Lets Sullivan Hit Him Many Times on the Jaw

Champion, Testing His Resisting Powers, Shows He Can Take a Sound Wallop on the "Angle." Without Being Jarred—Diet Still Being Adhered To.

By Jess Willard.

World's Heavyweight Ring Champion

(Copyright, 1919, by the Ring Syndicate.)
TOLEDO, O., June 6.—The weather man was kind to me yesterday morning. A refreshing breeze blew in from Lake Erie and I took advantage of it to the extent of five miles of road work. I went out toward the Overland plant, which is about two and a half miles from my temporary home in the West End, and came back at a pretty fair clip. I wound up with a sprint and came into the house fairly dripping. A cool shower and a perfect rest followed, followed by a couple of hours' complete relaxation. At the end of that rest period I was feeling fitter than at any time since I struck Toledo.

But, oh boy, what an appetite! Maybe I couldn't make a thick steak disappear. That steak, however, would completely spoil all the effect of two or three days' hard training. Self-denial is the key to success in training for a championship.

Walter Monahan recovered nicely from the accidental knockout I handed him. He cracked me on the chin with a powerful right and almost before I knew it I had hit back without pulling my punch. Walter was dazed for about 30 seconds and he complained of a ringing in his ears for about half an hour afterwards. That was the fattest afternoon of my life. I felt like a champion. I felt like a champion. I felt like a champion.

My workout in the ring at the Casino yesterday afternoon was most satisfactory. I added about 10 minutes to its length and my sparring partners gave me a fast and heavy session.

Jack Hempel, the big Marine, tore in and pounded my body. Hempel has a peculiar crab-like shift as he comes in that would get him past the arms of almost anybody. I am perfecting a left jab and a right hook for the purpose.

Willard Needs Partners Who Can Punish Him

Experts Declare Present Opponents Cannot Harden Champion Sufficiently.

TOLEDO, O., June 6.—Sparring partners capable of handing out punishment instead of absorbing it, is the paramount need in Jess Willard's training camp if the champion is to get into a hardened condition for his championship contest with Jack Dempsey here July 4, boxing experts declared today.

Willard can stand with his hands at his sides, if he so desires and allow the present sparring partners in camp to drive blows at his jaw and stomach without apparent effect, but sparring experts said that was no indication that he could expose his vulnerable parts when Dempsey begins shooting his gloved fists at him.

Ray O. Archer, manager of the heavyweight champion, is due in New York today to locate one and perhaps two sparring partners capable of trading wallops with Willard instead of being on the receiving end.

Walter Monahan, a veteran in Willard's service, is the chief sparring partner in camp, but experts point out that he is not in condition to withstand Willard's attack, as he has been in the army for several months and has had no opportunity to condition himself for the grueling work. Monahan was sent to the front and completely knocked out in his first fight with the champion Wednesday.

MISS JEMIMA IS RATED AS BEST TWO-YEAR OLD

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 6.—Turfmen interested in the performance of Miss Jemima, a 2-year-old filly by Black Toney out of Valla, point to her two victories at the late race meeting at Churchill Downs as stamping her as the best colt to show this season in the West.

Miss Jemima scored an easy victory in the seventh running of the Spring Trial Stakes, ahead of the best 2-year-olds that could be mustered including Patched, Westwood, Atta Boy and Mighty A day previously she started with a crack field and won in the mud.

Miss Jemima was bred by E. B. Bradley and sold to C. E. Rowe as a yearling.

FURTHER GAINS SCORED BY NEW YORK STOCKS

Steel Shares and Motors Feature the Trading in the Early Session.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Bullish enthusiasm was rampant at the opening of the stock market today, following the wide upturn of yesterday, and sharp advances were registered on nearly all the favorite shares. Trading was most active in motors, oils and steels, which have featured the recent speculation.

Bankers expect another advance in money rates if the advance in values is carried much further.

St. Paul's recent earnings illustrate the manner in which most of the big stocks are falling behind the compensation accruing to the corporations owning them under their contracts with the Government. Although this raised the earnings for April increased $1,733,335, the net operating profit was $1,425,296, worse than the profit of last year in the same month of 1918. April net from operation represented less than one-fifth of a month's fixed charges.

In the first four months of this calendar year, gross earnings were $4,149,255, an increase of $8,858,575, or 25 per cent, but they failed to cover operating expenses and state taxes by $425,435. In the same period of last year, gross earnings were $4,149,255, an increase of $8,858,575, or 25 per cent, but they failed to cover operating expenses and state taxes by $425,435.

These figures are interesting as showing some light upon the situation of the road world. They are particularly so in that they show that the first third of this year operating results were $1,425,296, worse than the same period of last year.

DEMPSEY FAVORED ON COAST, WHERE BOTH MEN BEGAN FISTIC CAREERS

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—In no city in the country are Jess Willard, the heavyweight champion boxer, and challenger Jack Dempsey better known among the followers of the ring than in this city. Both men practically made their start here, although both men had fought practically as unknown before coming here.

Willard's fight against "Gunboat" Smith, in which Willard lost the decision, was the first real opportunity for the ring hero to show his ability. Estimating the worth of Willard, he did not make much of a reputation for himself as a fighter but he did make a name for himself as a boxer.

MORE TRUTH, THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

TIME BRINGS CHANGES.

When thirst was young and cost us to maintain
A rather large per cent of our per diem,
We used to love to titillate our brain
With quatrains from the pen of Omar Kayyam.
Then every tavern portal stood agape,
No laws laid bans on bibulous enjoyment,
And getting jocund with the fruitful grape
Appeared to us a rather fine employment.

A book of verses culled beside the bar
(We didn't need the book; we used to spout 'em)
A friend or two, a highball—a cigar—
Combined, they had a rare delight about 'em.
And all the persons present would agree
That friends like us should never, never sunder.
And as for Omar Kayyam, there could be
No doubt that he was one young Persian wonder.

From twenty-two to twenty-five, perhaps,
We knew by heart Omar's many pages,
And held with two or three congenial chaps
That he was quite the marvel of the ages.
"What harm in getting boiled?" he seemed to say
"If whisky's due to bowl you over—let it.
And as for life, it soon will flit away.
The wise way is to guzzle—and forget it."

But now that we have curbed our appetite
(For with more years we're more sedately gifted)
We do not stroll 'round taverns of a night
And never get the least illuminated.
We've changed our views on life to some extent
We do not look off things the way we used to.
We're more reserved, and placid and content,
And Mr. Omar's lost a first-class booster.

HARD TO PLEASE.

There are 80,000 words in the corncut, yet Senator Lodge apparently is going to regard it as a scrap of paper.

TOO LATE.

Germany is discovering that when she cheered the sinking of the Lusitania she was rejoicing over her own death warrant.

IT'S AN ILL WIND, ETC.

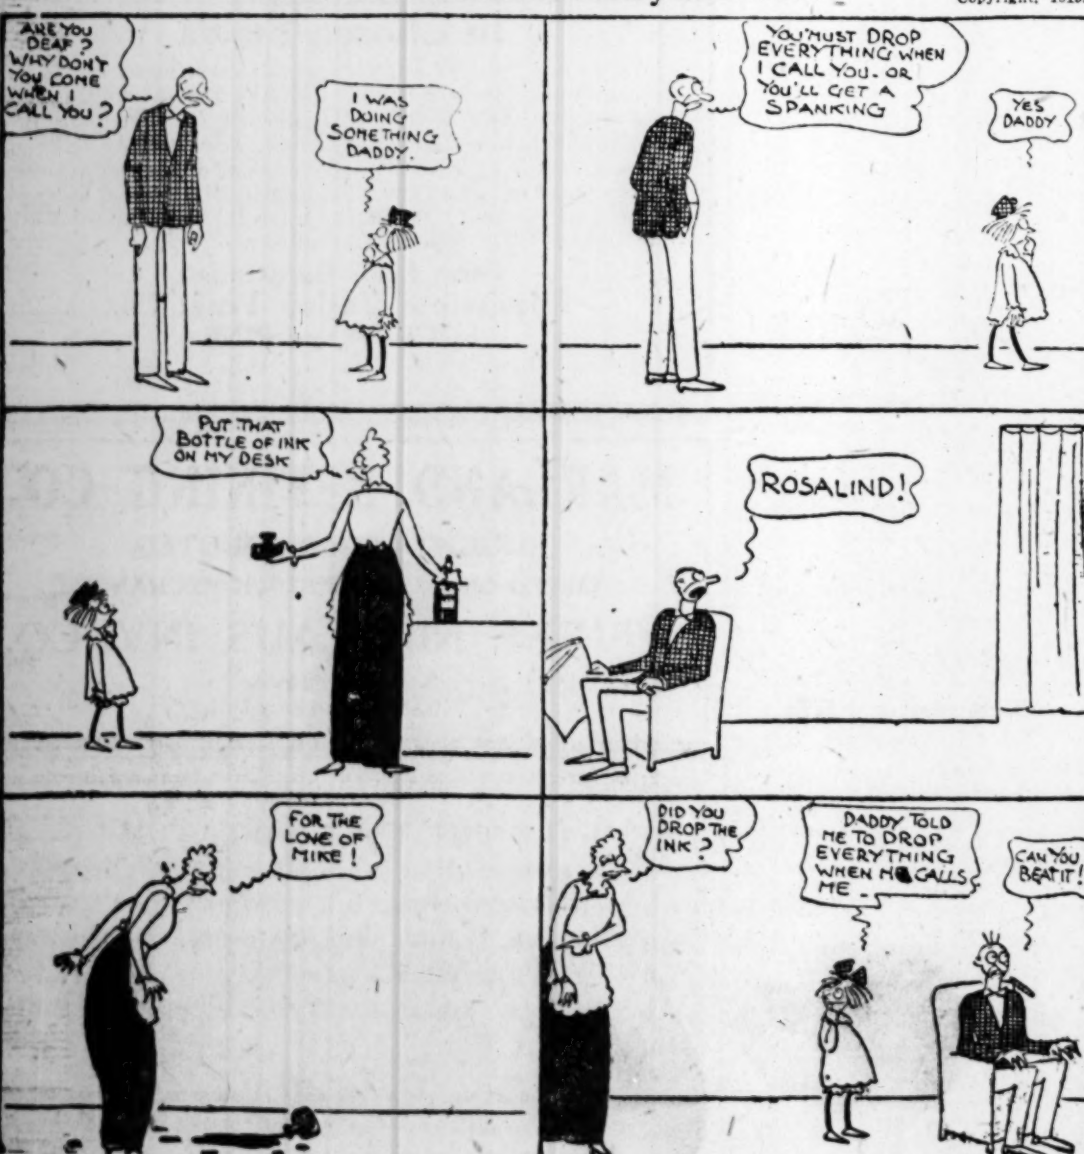

However satisfactory the peace
terms are it is going to be necessary just the same for little Willie to learn his geography all over again.

Looked Suspicious.

"Gr-r-r-r-r!" The train drew up with a mighty crash and shock between stations.
"Is it an accident? What happened?" inquired a worried-looking individual of the conductor.
"Someone pulled the bell cord!"
shouted the conductor. "The express knocked our last car off the track!
Take us four hours before the track is clear!"
"Great Scott! Four hours! I am supposed to be married today!"
groaned the passenger.
The conductor, a bigoted bachelor, raised his eyebrows suspiciously.
"Look here!" he demanded. "I suppose you ain't the chap that pulled that cord?"—Truth-Seeker.
